THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

We publish in another column a full report of the Republican City Convention held on Saturday last, for the nomination of a ticket to be supported at the ensuing Municipal election.

It is well known that the PRESS AND TRIBUNE is not an admirer of Mr. Wentworth, and that it has believed the best interests of the Republican party demanded the selection of some other man from its ranks for the Mayoralty. Its opinion on this subject has undergone no change; but recognizing its obligations to the party, it bows to the action of the Convention, and will give its support to Mr. Wentworth as against Mr. Gurnee or any other representative of Pro-Slavery Democracy.

MR. HARVEY, the nominee for City Treasurer, is the old incumbent of that office. He is well known to his party friends and to the public generally as an efficient officer. His nomination will be well received.

The gentleman put in nomination for the office of City Attorney—J. LYLE KING, Esq.—is in every respect qualified for the office. He is possessed of superior legal attainments, fine abilities, and is, withal, a most courteous gentleman. His name upon the ticket will add much to its strength.

IVER LAWSON is one of our old and substantial citizens. The giving to him the place of candidate for Marshal upon the ticket was a compliment worthily bestowed; and is only an act of justice to our Scandinavian fellow citizens, who are always to be relied upon when the contest is between freedom and slavery.

JOHN RABER is also an old and well known citizen. As a representative of the German Republican element, his name upon the ticket, as candidate for Collector, will give strength to it.

GEORGE WILSON, nominee for City Surveyor, has been for several years in that office and in the office of City Superintendent, in a subordinate capacity. He is therefore familiar with everything pertaining to the office, and possesses every requisite qualification for a faithful and accurate discharge of its duties.

Such is the ticket presented to the Republicans of the city. The time for internal dissension closed with the primary meetings; the fight during the remainder of the canvass will be with the cohorts of pro Slavery. Let every Republican gird himself for the contest, shrinking from no labor or duty to secure the success of the ticket.

A Teacher Expelled from Arkansas.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]
AURORA, Ill., Feb. 15, 1860.

With your permission, I will occupy a small space in your paper, as a witness against the tyranny and oppression in the South. I have resided in Louisiana and Arkansas over ten years, was engaged in teaching, and am an official member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Since the Harper's Ferry affair the Southern people have a peculiar hatred against Northern and Eastern people, irrespective of party.

In January, a spy was sent to me to ascertain my political views, endeavoring to extort from me a confession that "Slavery was a social, moral and political blessing," (or sentiments to that amount,) and also to have me enlist in a military company, to be ready "to fight the North, and particularly the Yankees, in the next expected outbreak;" to "be ready to fight for the dissolution of the Union," &c.

I informed the spy, that "I could not, consistently with my convictions of right and wrong," and further, "I would not!" That "I was proud of Yankeedom as the land of my nativity, and that I would sooner die than take up arms against my parents, brothers and sisters."

Three days after, I was waited upon by a gentleman slaveholder, showing me resolutions, signed by nearly all the planters in that vicinity, resolving themselves into a "Vigilance Committee, for the security of their slaves, pledging themselves one to another, to examine every non-slaveholder and satisfy themselves beyond a doubt of the soundness of every person,—and should they find any one of whom they should have the slightest suspicion, they would communicate at once, one with another."

The gentleman then accused me of receiving Abolition literature, saying that a Congregational Herald was found at the Post Office addressed to me, and that I had correspondence and associations in the North and East. This I admitted, also that "I was anti-Slavery from the bottom of my heart." He then notified me "to leave within thirty-six hours, that he would protect me that length of time, but he would not promise me my life to be safe any longer." I consented to leave rather than loose my life. I was obliged to leave all my property, library and all, not being allowed time to collect my claims or pay my debts, or to talk with any non-slaveholder—breaking up my school and throwing me out of employment.

I have reason to praise my God that I am once more free, in a land where the truth is not muzzled, where free discussion is tolerated, and that I have emerged from that savage wilderness where reigns the prince of darkness, whose haunts are commanded by slaveholders and dealers in human flesh, where as long as life shall last, and I have the power of expression, and as long as I can wield a pen, I shall bear testimony against that debasing system which is oppressing so many millions of our human race.

Thanks be to God, that there is a party in the North, the great Republican party, that great terror to the South, who are riding forth to conquer, whose great moral influence is being felt in all the remotest parts of slavedom.

Respectfully, H. T. TEWKSBURY.

Fire.

Shortly after twelve o'clock on Thursday last the livery stable of Messrs. Farrow & Sinclair, on Edwards street, between Madison and Jefferson streets, Litchfield, (Ill.,) was discovered to be on fire, and before any measures could be taken to extinguish it the whole building was a mass of flames. The Litchfield Hotel on the west was but twenty feet from the burning building, and though the wind, which blew a perfect gale, came from that direction, it was only by the most indefatigable exertions that it was saved. The Montgomery House, on the east, about sixty-five feet, was in a still more dangerous situation, the wind carrying the flames directly towards it, and the roof actually taking fire several times, but by the continued application of water to the roof and sides it was also saved.

At the time the alarm was given the railroad hands were just returning from dinner, and to their timely assistance and untiring efforts may be attributed the fortunate termination of the fire in the destruction only of the building in which it originated.

The loss is estimated at $1,500. All the horses in the stable at the time of the fire were safely brought out except two, one of which was burned to death, and the eye-sight of the other destroyed. There was no insurance.—Litchfield Free Press.

Steamer Sailed.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The steamship City of Washington sailed to-day for Liverpool, with 174 passengers and $860,000 in specie. She took New Orleans mails of the 11th and telegraph dispatches of the 17th.

THE ITALIAN QUESTION.

A Highly Important Statement.

The London Morning Post, which has the credit of being the organ of Lord Palmerston, has an important editorial in its issue of Feb. 3d, upon the policy of France and England on the Italian question. It says:

"We announced at the beginning of the year that a virtual alliance had been existing between England and France for the settlement of Italian affairs. We expressly stated that the two Governments bound themselves by no treaties, but that their agreement was the result of the force of circumstances and the dictation of public opinion. This alliance, every day drawn closer, already begins to produce evident and tangible consequences. It is now formally determined that no intervention shall take place in Italy, and the people shall be left to their own devices. It is therefore agreed that the States of Central Italy shall dispose of themselves. Fresh elections are to be held, and the assemblies resulting from the popular choice are to decree the annexation of their constituents to the Sardinian kingdom.

"The French troops are to be withdrawn from Northern Italy and from Rome at an early opportunity. It is no secret that Austria, having listened to the Western alliance and her own serious difficulties, has given up all hopes of retrieving her position and influence in Italy, and not only sheaths her sword, but puts it aside. An attempt will be made to induce her to grant reforms in Venetia, of which she is still left mistress."

The Post adds that, "the stubbornness of the Pope bids fair to deprive him of the whole of his temporalities. Naples groans under a heavier tyranny than ever, and the cries of Venice are loud enough to strike our ears, however we may shut them. The Italian question, then, being likely to take still larger proportions, our best, safest and most beneficent policy is that strict line of duty by which this time last year we might have prevented war and by which we may now guarantee the peace of Europe. That line is—"no foreign intervention, but Italy for the Italians."

From Washington.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.
[N. Y. Herald's Washington Correspondence.]

Mr. Hatch, of Buffalo, who is engaged in preparing a report in regard to the Reciprocity Treaty with a view to its modification, has nearly completed his labors, and is here in consultation with the State Department in regard to the subject.

There are a large number of leading New York Democrats here, some of whom are delegates to the Charleston Convention from the Wood and Syracuse Conventions. They are respectively casting about as to the chances of their admission into the Charleston Convention. The Southern Senators and members here are very cautious in committing themselves.

A requisition has been made by the Government upon that of Canada under the Ashburton Treaty, for the rendition of a fugitive from justice named Ritchie, who escaped recently from St. Lawrence county, N. Y.

At the inauguration of the Washington Statue, in addition to the 7th Regiment of New York, Col. Auguste's battalion of Baltimore, City Guards, a troop of Maryland dragoons, the companies of this District, and, if possible, the United States artillery from Fort Monroe, will be present. Commanders of Knights Templars from Richmond, Baltimore and this city, under the Eminent Grand Commander French, will escort the Free Masons, who have invited the Lodge at Fredericksburg, where Washington took his degrees, the Lodge at Alexandria, where he presided, and the Lodge at Georgetown, which aided him in laying the corner-stone of the Capitol.

The U. S. Court at Charleston, S. C., has assessed the damages upon Captain Church, master of the ship William Patten, to the amount of $400, with the costs of the suit. This was an action to recover the penalty on a bond under the act of 1803 requiring masters of vessels before their clearance to deliver to the collector a certified copy of their crew list, and bring back an account for all persons comprising the crew.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.—At Boston, on Monday, many of the prominent flour and grain dealers held an informal meeting, and passed a series of resolutions, which were transmitted to the government of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, the purport of which was to call the attention of the Company to the desirableness of continuing the road by a broad-gauge track direct to Boston.

BEAUTIFUL FOR THE HOME OF THE "FRIENDLESS."—We understand a project is on foot among some of our leading citizens to give an Old Folks' concert at Metropolitan Hall, at an early date for the benefit of the "Home of the Friendless."

DISTRICT MAP OF ILLINOIS.—Charles Shober, the well-known Lithographer, at No. 109 Lake Street, has just issued a new outline map of this State, showing counties and congressional districts. It will be most useful to politicians this campaign year as a convenience, which gives at a glance the position and number of each district, the counties composing it, and the name and political character of the representative. Notwithstanding all which, its expensive character, &c., it will be sold by news dealers at a low figure.

THE CLASSIC CONCERTS AT THE BRIGGS HOUSE.—The first of the series of classic concerts came off last Friday night, and notwithstanding the snow storm, the hall was well filled. Mrs. Bostwick kindly assisted in the initiation of these concerts. The well, perhaps too much, known bravo aria from "Robert le Diable" was rendered by this lady with very good effect, though we regard the choice of the piece as rather unhappy. Miss Garthe pleased very much by a cavatina from the same opera. Mr. Root did credit to himself by the rendering of a song of Robert Franz, but the main effect in this—as in nearly all the songs of this composer—being in the harmonious modulations, it requires more acquaintance, before it can be duly appreciated. The main feature of the concert was the trio epic 70 No. 2, by Beethoven,—the so-called "Ghost trio,"—which was performed in an exquisite manner by Messrs. Becker, De Clerque and Melms. The fantasia of the "Freischutz," a very brilliant composition, was tastefully executed by Mr. De Clerque and elicited much applause. "O, mighty magi," from the "Pardon of Ploermel," a very difficult and brilliant aria, was admirably rendered by Mr. De Passio.

We take this occasion to pay our compliments to the performers for not yielding to an encore. An encore can only weaken the effect of the following pieces, especially if they are of so solid a character as the trios of Beethoven. These concerts, giving us classic music interspersed with brilliant pieces, are calculated to please and elevate at the same time the musical taste, and therefore deserve the patronage of all those who take an interest in music.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

The Republican City Convention.

A FULL TICKET IN THE FIELD.

The City Convention yesterday was called to meet in the Recorder's Court Room, and at the hour of 2 P. M., and indeed for some time previous it was most manifest that those who had selected the place had made or at least prepared no adequate provision in accommodations to meet and answer the present excited feeling with which this occasion was to be attended. The Court Room was full long before half the delegates had passed within the bar, leaving the rest of the space not only of the Court Room but the Court House vestibule filled by an eager and exceedingly compact crowd, of a thousand or two, amid which the delegates who came late or even at the appointed hour, struggled vainly for progress, and pressed claims which they could do nothing but urge. The crowd were good-natured, and bore the rib-constricting, toe-crushing melée without a murmur.

An attempt was made to organize and carry on the Convention under these circumstances, but it went no further than the temporary organization, when it being announced that Metropolitan Hall was in readiness and vacant, the question of adjournment thither was carried with a whirlwind of applause both within and without the Convention, and in an incredibly short period the whole crowd, delegates and all, were accommodated in Metropolitan Hall, the Convention occupying the platform. The floor and galleries were densely packed.

The previous temporary organization was on motion made permanent as follows:

PRESIDENT, A. G. Throop.
Secretaries, Charles Leib and Joseph Pollock.

The list of delegates, with one or two exceptions, in filling vacancies was adopted as published in Saturday's PRESS & TRIBUNE.

TENTH WARD—H. Niemeyer, L. Morrison, John Schulgen, Lewis Dodge, G. W. Edwards, Philip Moser, A. F. Dwight, Conrad Schmidt, C. R. Chandler.

A letter was read by the Secretary as follows:

MR. ARNOLD'S LETTER.

To the President of the Republican Convention of the City of Chicago.

SIR:—Will you please announce to the Convention that I am not a candidate for Mayor. I reluctantly consented to be a candidate at the earnest solicitation of many prominent citizens of the Republicans, with a view of promoting the success of the Republican party.

The action of the party yesterday relieves me from a position which I never sought on my own account, and from which I retire most willingly. The success of the Republican party is an object with me afore every personal consideration, and for which I would make any personal sacrifice. The nominee of the Convention, whoever the delegates may in their wisdom select, will receive my hearty, sincere and zealous support. Respectfully Yours,
ISAAC N. ARNOLD.

February 18th, 1860.

In behalf of A. Harvey, Esq., who had been a candidate before the primary meeting, his name was withdrawn by A. Garrison, from such use before the Convention.

The following letter explains itself:

Respectfully Yours,
JOHN C. MILLER,
Corresponding Secretary.

A CITY CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

A motion was made that a committee of seven be chosen to act as a City Republican Committee.

Mr. Kreismann moved that the matter be laid on the table. The candidates can choose their own committee. Besides, there was a committee already in existence, a committee of fifty.

After some discussion a vote was called by ayes and noes resulting as follows:

Ayes	46
Noes	32

The motion was carried.

The question was discussed further and with some warmth. It was understood by some that it was contemplated in the motion to discharge the previous committee of fifty, appointed in Light Guard Hall. Mr. Garrison moved to discharge said committee.

Mr. Waughop urged that this committee of seven were to be chosen to call the Convention next year.

AN EPISODE.

In the course of the proceedings of the Convention, a sharp-eyed delegate discovered a crack in the plaster under the west gallery which was densely filled with spectators, and rose to move the gallery be cleared, stating his conviction that there would be a Pemberton Mill catastrophe in all probability. This caused a decided state of excitement and as much of a rush as the impacted state of the hall both in the gallery supposed to be affected and on the floor beneath, would allow. All was set at rest by the assurance, by Mr. E. S. Wells, the proprietor of the hall, that the crack was an old one, and no crack at all, but a mark from a rope. This understood, order was restored, and the Convention resumed its business.

STREET COMMISSIONERS.

Mr. Garrison, of the Committee appointed to canvass the votes for the same, announced the following votes for the same:

Peter Wolff, South Division.
William M. Dunn, West Division.

The Chairman appointed the following as

THOS. E. POULSON, Sec'y.

GEORGE SUMNER'S LECTURE.—We would call attention to the lecture this evening. The avails will go to the benefit of the Westminster Church, Rev. Mr. Spencer, pastor. This Church, by great effort, have just completed a plain, pleasant and commodious edifice. All who go to Metropolitan Hall this evening will not only a rich treat, but have the satisfaction of aiding a worthy cause.

MRS. BOSTWICK'S CONCERT.—The sixth and last of Mrs. Bostwick's Soiree Musicala, will take place this evening at the Briggs House. These concerts have been largely attended and highly appreciated by the music-loving public, and the concert of this evening offers a programme inferior to none of the series, as comprising in the list of performers, musical talent of which the city may well be proud. Mrs. Bostwick will be assisted by several distinguished artists, as well as by her pupils and amateurs.

MINISTRY AT LARGE.—We have a most worthy and industrious Englishman, a good painter, paper, and whitewasher, who has had hardly one day's work this winter, and has a large family asking for their daily bread. He will work cheaply and well. Can some good householder find a job for him at his trade? Also, a cabinet-maker, who will be glad to find any little work at repairing. He is old and poor. Apply at 169 Randolph street, third floor.

ROBERT COLLYER.

A CHICAGOAN ON HIS TRAVELS.—The New York Tribune of Wednesday says:

Mr. Nichols, Superintendent of the Chicago Reformatory Institution, left for Europe yesterday in the "City of Manchester." The children of the Hammersley Street Industrial School and Boys' Meeting, and a number of boys from the Newsboys' Lodging House, met him at Pier No. 44, North River, to take leave, as he has been a great favorite with the boys during his stay in the city. He distributed apples and oranges very freely among them, and they wished him, with many cheers, a safe passage across the Atlantic. He intends visiting the most celebrated Reformatories in Europe.

POLICE MATTERS.

EXAMINATION OF BURGLARS.—Manuel Watters, Joshua Elders, and David Vining, colored men, who were arrested a few days since for breaking into the boot and shoe store of Abram Lowenthal, No. 205 South Clark street, and stealing therefrom a quantity of boots and shoes, were brought up this morning before Justice Aiken and Milliken for examination. The store was broken open on Tuesday night light by cutting out a glass from the back door and unlocking it from the inside.

Part of the boots and shoes, of which there some thirty pair stolen, were found in a notorious den on Jackson street called the "banjorum," where the prisoners were arrested. The balance of the property was afterwards found in a house kept by a colored woman, Mrs. Louisa Vaughn who was, together with a white woman, Mary Wilson, who was found in the house, arrested. ASSAULT AT A DANCE.—Michael Rich was arrested for assaulting one Ludwig Metz, at the corner of Sedgwick and Larrabee streets. Rich and another man were in Metz's house, attending a dance, and got into a quarrel. Metz tried to separate them, when Rich struck him a blow on the face, inflicting a severe wound on the nose. He was fined $15 and costs, and put under $200 bonds for threats to kill Metz.

PROMISED TO DO BETTER.—Mary Munson, who got out of the Bridewell on Friday, was found on the street the same afternoon very drunk and attracting a large crowd by her noise. She was arrested and discharged on promising to do better.

STEALING SAWS AND SHOVELS.—A man named Peter Flynn was arrested this morning charged with stealing several hand saws and some shovels. The property is at the Marshal's office awaiting identification. One of the saws is covered with blood, and one of the shovels has an "A" cut in the handle.

LARCENY.—Lewis Wagner was arrested on Saturday for stealing a buffalo robe and string of bells from Wilcox's livery stable, where the prisoner was employed. The property had been sold and was recovered. Wagner is in jail awaiting an examination.

GREAT RATIFICATION MEETING!

GRAND RALLY FOR THE TICKET.

Ball Opened at Metropolitan Hall.

Any of the Democracy who have been looking to see whatever discord and conflict preceded the primary meetings, outlive the nominations of the City Convention, had an opportunity on Saturday evening to discover proof that the ticket once established as a Republican ticket, and Republican nominees once in the field, Republicans have too much at stake to allow even the smallest office under that ticket to go by default or fail through lack of harmony. So much in earnest have our city Republicans taken up the duty of the campaign that the ratification meeting set down for Monday evening at Metropolitan Hall, was by universal acclamation brought forward and anticipated, and without the publication of a call in a single newspaper or poster, at less than two hours' notice the hall was densely packed with one of the most enthusiastic and stirring Republican rallies ever held in Chicago.

The meeting had been called to meet in the Young Men's Republican Club Rooms, and of necessity adjournment was had to the larger and indeed the only place of assembling that will contain the gatherings of our Republicans, now fairly embarked in the contest with Democracy and Slavery Extension in 1860.

E. S. Williams, Esq., President of the Young Men's Republican Club, presided, and opened the ball for the evening in a happy and well timed speech.

Alonzo Harvey, the candidate for re-election as City Treasurer, John Lyle King, Esq., the next City Attorney, Charles Leib, and William Bross of the PRESS AND TRIBUNE, successively responded to the call of the meeting, and advocated sound Republican doctrines, the importance of the coming struggle, and the necessity of carrying the city with rousing majorities, in the present position of the Republican party, rallying and arming for glorious victories in this year 1860, to culminate in the grand triumph in November.

Hon. John Wentworth came forward about nine o'clock amid loud cheers and made a speech in which the main prominence was given to the important bearing the success or defeat of the Republican party in this coming city election will have upon more important contests before us. The State ticket to be carried, the Legislature to be set right, Illinois Republicanism to be represented in the United States Senate, and, finally, the whole electoral vote of Illinois to be given for the candidate of the Chicago Convention, were all closely connected with the success or defeat of the city Republican ticket.

Messrs. Jo. W. Bell, Elliott Anthony and A. H. Kohn followed, each well sustaining the enthusiasm that was unabated, few of the vast gathering leaving the hall until the hour of ten, when the Ratification meeting closed with a rousing "three times three" for the Republican ticket, the whole ticket, and nothing but the ticket.

It is abundantly demonstrated that Republicans have gone to work, and that our friends abroad who will watch this contest, may rest assured that the best possible preparation will be made here for the accommodation of the Chicago Presidential Convention in June by securing its session in a city wholly and entirely Republican. Let everybody go to work, was the spirit and sent ment of the Ratifiers on Saturday evening.

EVERYBODY'S FRIEND! Soap Made Without Ley or Grease. Boraback's Compound Chemical Toilet and Washing Soap. USEFUL, SIMPLE AND CHEAP. Patented March 2, 1857. This Soap is unsurpassed, or we may say unequaled by any in the world. Its qualities for washing, shaving, softening and whitening the skin, are far superior to any other compound now in use. It will prevent the skin from chafing; it removes tan or sunburn; it will remove grease, or any black from your clothing, with cold or warm water. In the first place, this soap is made without ley or grease. In the second place, the toilet soap is made at less cost than any other washing soap that is made. In the third place, it can be made in a few minutes, and in so simple that any one, after purchasing a recipe, can make it, and the materials are easily obtained. In the fourth place you can take a barrel of common soft soap and make two of it in fifteen minutes at a cost of 20 cents per barrel, and two barrels of common soap in half the time that it takes to make the soap dissolve, and then it goes just as far again. A barrel of soft soap weighs 240 pounds, and that is 5 cents a pound, the usual price, makes $12.00; thus you make your recipe clear in the doing up of one barrel of soap, to say nothing of a better article at an expense of one cent per pound. ☞ I will furnish to any one the above recipe, with full instructions for FIVE DOLLARS in gold or current money. All money sent by mail is at my risk. All orders promptly attended to. Address the undersigned at Cheapside Depot, Shelby county, Ky. fe17b633 d1-w J. H. COOPER.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

No man acquainted with municipal elections in Chicago, needs to be told that in the manner of choosing men for municipal honors, there is something radically wrong. At least, no one needs to be told that the work antecedent to an election is of that kind which no man of sensibility, or of conscience, ought to be asked to undertake. The unwillingness of fit candidates for municipal trusts to come forward and do that which custom has made a necessity, is yearly strengthened by the dirty dancing, unlimited guzzling, infinite lying and downright cheating which enter into every canvass; and year after year our city politics will degenerate, until at last public safety and the public property will be wholly at the mercy of the men who are the most profoundly skilled in the arts which demagogues practice. There seems to be no good reason why popularity should be sought in the grog-shops and slums of which the city has so many; nor no excuse for putting in play that system of tactics in politics, which, if adopted in business, would send those who use it to the penitentiary as swindlers and cheats.

It is vain to hope that one party will lay down the advantages which may be gained by pursuing the policy that we condemn, as long as it is kept up by the other; and we know that it is equally vain to look for an union among the better men of all parties to put an end to the yearly saturnalia, by voting down at the polls those who encourage it. But it is manifest that system so rotten and corrupt cannot bear good fruit; and that as long as our rulers must, to obtain their places, minister to the meanest passions and appetites of that portion of the population that is the lowest in the scale of morals and intelligence, their power must be so wielded as to promote the growth of that by which they have risen and hope to rise higher. The candidate who pays for and helps drink whisky by the barrel, before election, finds, when he has gained that which he sought, that he is incompetent to check the liquor traffic no matter how illegally pursued; and he who uses Sunday as the day in which his schemes may be most successfully promoted in the dance-houses and concert-rooms, need not be expected to be at all earnest to enforce the laws by which all the year round that day is secured to Christian men as a season of quiet and rest. The pimps who hang about brothels, the gamblers who keep open dens for luring the innocent and young, the shoulder-hitters and fancy-men,—if courted and flattered while a canvass is going on, expect no active interference with their pursuits when the canvass has come to an end and the officers of their choice are installed.

These facts are so notorious, and the disorder and insecurity arising from them so well known, that good men, wedded by their principles to the broadest exercise of the elective franchise, have long been casting about them for a remedy. We know not what it will be. But that some change in the manner of choosing our municipal officers is demanded, the history of every day in every considerable city in the land, is conclusive proof. It has been suggested that a system by which the choice of Mayor for instance, may be made to depend upon lots, cast by half a dozen candidates, would afford a comparative immunity from the penalties which follow the present plan. Suppose, for example, that the city charter were so amended that every voter was required to cast a ballot on which were the names of six candidates for the Mayoralty; and that, out of the six highest voted for, one should be chosen by lot. The Republicans would vote for their man, the D[...] of parties would not be disturbed, and the candidates would [...] sent principles as now [...] incentive to the dis[...] pandering to popular vices and immoralities, to the profuse expenditure of money for the corruption of voters, and to the personal electioneering, which now do so much mischief, would be taken away; because no man would hazard his reputation, his self-respect and his purse in a conflict in which he had but one blind chance, out of half a dozen chances, for winning the coveted prize. There are serious objections to this plan; but it is the simplest and most feasible one that has been yet devised. Some few, forgetting that irritating disorders are the price of great liberty, would limit the right of voting by a property qualification in the voter; but the day has gone by in which the right of self-government may be taken away because it is not accompanied by the possession of a certain amount of money; hence, until Republican ideas of equality are trampled out, that restriction can never be adopted.

Whatever the remedy, we point out the evil to the candidates now in the field, entreating them for the success of the Administration of which one or the other of them will be the head, to avoid the debasing and dangerous expedients to which it has become the habit of candidates to resort. By and by, when the present system works out its legitimate result, all parties, startled by the danger to which they will wake up, may be ready to adopt a plan that will afford them immunity and relief.

THE WISCONSIN IMBROGLIO.

A short time ago we made a brief allusion to the facts involved in the judicial imbroglio in Wisconsin, which, as it seemed to us, were tending towards a "stump" race between Judges Dixon and Smith for the office of Chief Justice, to be voted for in April next. We will state these points more fully.

Some six years ago, the Hon. Abram D. Smith, a man of decided abilities and force of character, delivered an opinion from the Supreme bench of that State declaring the Fugitive Slave Law of 1850 unconstitutional. Subsequently his views were concurred in by Chief Justice Whiton in a separate opinion, less fervid in diction but quite as weighty in argument. These gentlemen constituting a majority of the Court, the obnoxious law became at once a dead letter in Wisconsin. The term of the third Judge, (Crawford), who had dissented from his colleagues, expiring soon after, an issue was made up for the "town meetings" to decide. The Hon. Orsamus Cole, of Potosi, was brought forward as the representative of the principles enunciated by Smith and Whiton. Crawford was nominated as the Fugitive Slave Law candidate. Cole was elected by a majority which astounded both parties—some seven thousand, if we recollect rightly. Shortly after his accession to the bench, (or possibly before he had taken his seat), the Court became involved in a controversy with the U. S. Supreme Court. One of the parties in the Booth-Glover case took an appeal to Washington, and Judge Taney's Court sent to Madison for the record of the Wisconsin Court, to "correct" it in due form. The precise issue involved was the liberty of Mr. S. M. Booth, a citizen of Wisconsin, who had been arrested by a United States Marshal for obstructing the operation of the fugitive slave law, and who had been taken from the custody of the Marshal by a writ of habeas corpus issuing from the Supreme bench of the State. The Wisconsin Judges, deeming Judge Taney's mandate an infraction of the sovereignty of Wisconsin, calculated to impair the power of the State to protect its citizens who have been found guilty of no crime, refused to allow a transcript of the record to be made. Matters were thus brought to a dead lock, and so they have remained ever since. Mr. Kellogg, the Clerk of the Court, was, we believe, summoned to Washington to answer for contempt, but he refused to go and took care not to be kidnapped by any parties bound that way.

Judge Smith's term of office expired in April last, and Chief-Justice Whiton died a few days earlier. The latter had been re-elected in 1857 by ten or twelve thousand majority over Cothren, (Fugitive Slave Law candidate). Judge Doolittle, of Racine, had meanwhile been elected U. S. Senator over Judge Howe, of Green Bay, by reason of his concurrence with the Supreme Court on the State Rights question. This fact had created some bitterness of feeling among an influential portion of the Republican party—influential in numbers, ability and character. It was contended by the supporters of Judge Howe that the Court question had no business with the political question. A cry of proscription was raised, which while it had no influence upon subsequent elections of judges, raised some bitterness in the party, and has now come to a focus in the controversy between the friends of Dixon and Smith. The latter, though supported by a powerful division of the party in the contest of last year, was ruled out of the fight on account of certain facts personal to himself, which the party could not endorse. The Hon. Byron Paine, Booth's counsel in the Fugitive Slave case, was elected to Smith's vacancy by nearly ten thousand majority, and Judge Dixon was appointed to Chief Justice Whiton's place by Gov. Randall. A short time since, as the public are aware, Judge Dixon delivered an opinion in a branch of the Booth case, which was equivalent to a surrender of the State Rights position taken by the Court heretofore. It did not touch the constitutionality of the Fugitive Slave Law, but it conceded the right of the U. S. Supreme Court to review and reverse the judgments of the State Court in matters touching the liberty of citizens charged with violating that law. Dixon and Smith are both candidates for Chief Justice. At first blush it would seem the clear duty of the Convention which meets at Madison on the 29th inst., to rule them both out and take a third man. But this plan is beset with various difficulties. If the third man should happen to concur with Judge Smith on the State Rights question, the other wing of the party (whether great or small), would be as much nonsuited as though Smith himself were nominated. On the other hand, if he should happen to concur with Judge Dixon, the State Rights men would undoubtedly bolt, and defeat him. If Smith himself should be nominated, the party would become responsible for his personal errors, defects, or what not—a thing which many of his own friends are unprepared for. If Judge Dixon should be nominated Judge Smith would probably run as an independent candidate, and what with his unquestioned popularity and tact, it is admitted by all that he would make a heavy inroad in the vote usually given to the regular nominee.

These are the facts which seem to favor the opinion that the coming contest will be rather of a popular than a political cast—that Judge Dixon and Smith will go before the people on their own merits and strength. And in such a case it is not to be denied that the former will receive the bulk of the Democratic vote, and the latter the larger share of the Republican. If there is any safer plan for maintaining the integrity and power of the Republican party than the one here indicated, we trust the coming Convention will find it out and adopt it. It is a fact beyond controversy that the party is stronger on the State Rights question than on any other issue; but on the other hand it should be remembered that that question is no part of the national Republican platform, and that its influence, so salutary in Wisconsin, may be unfortunate elsewhere.

BUSINESS PROSPECTS.

Sufficient time has elapsed since the first of January for our merchants and manufacturers to post up their books, and they are now prepared to study the prospects of trade for the coming season. We are in the third year since the memorable crash of '57, and the judgment of our shrewdest men has assigned this winter as the period from which we may expect general business to revive. Nearly all the departments of mercantile traffic have reached a substantial basis. Steady prices and a regular demand, w[...] mercantile success, the essential [...] these have been characteristic of last year's business. The "hard times" have sifted out those who from want of the necessary capital or old-fashioned honesty were unworthy the confidence of the public, and the trade of the country is now mainly in the hands of those who have the means and the ability to conduct it.

At the West, great as have been our prosperity and progress, those who understand our position confidently expect more real advancement in wealth and population during the next ten years than during any equal period in the past. Our railroads are nearly all built. A comparatively small sum will extend one or more lines across Iowa, and another line will doubtless be opened from Cedar Rapids or LaCrescent to St. Paul. But the West is now in a position to enjoy rest and increase. The money so lavishly distributed by the building of so many lines of railway produced an undue inflation, both in the price of labor and of real estate. Indeed, almost every thing was too high. That has all been corrected by the hard times through which we have passed. Lots and lands in city, town and country can now be purchased for half, and perchance for a third or a quarter of what they would have sold for three years ago. Rents in Chicago have fallen in some cases to mere nominal figures, and in this regard our property owners are having a serious time of it. They had things all their own way for several years, and if they made a prudent use of their immense profits, they can stand a season of depression without serious inconvenience.

A legitimate deduction from all these facts is, that now is the time to commence business, manufacturing, farming or any other legitimate industrial pursuit at the West. Horace Greeley, on his return from his recent lecturing tour, told the readers of the Tribune that now was the time to purchase cheap lands at the West. Improved farms could be had for the cost of the improvements. These facts are becoming known throughout the Eastern States, and there can be no doubt that emigration will commence as soon as the Spring opens, and that it will go on in a rapidly increasing ratio for many years to come. Millions of acres of the best land lie unimproved along the line and within easy distance of all our railroads. The fee simple of these lands can be had for little more than the rental of farms at the East. They will not be permitted to remain unimproved for many years.

The manufacturing facilities of our own city are attracting much attention. Were they properly improved it would create a large and steady home demand for Western products. While Chicago buys the products of our rich prairies, she should be prepared to furnish the farmers with nearly all their manufactured articles from her own workshops.

Another fact of great significance in a review of the business prospects of the West is the immense liquidation, that has been going on for the last two years. As a general rule our people have put an extinguisher upon all extravagance, and applied themselves vigorously to the payment of their debts. During the present year, a very large number of those who have been struggling with embarrassment, will find themselves permanently relieved, and that they will be wiser and better business men, there can be no reasonable doubt.

On the whole, therefore, we think the West has reached a position from which gradual improvement may be expected. It may disappoint the hopes of the over sanguine, but it will go equally beyond the expectations of the croakers, who are ever ingenious in finding omens of evil. But in our judgment patient, persevering industry, never had a better prospect at the West to secure a competence, we might add, a fortune.

Slavery by One Who has Seen It.

We are informed that Mr. H. S. Tewksbury, an account of whose expulsion from Arkansas we print to-day from his own pen, has prepared a lecture on "Slavery as he has seen it," which he will deliver for a small fee wherever it is requested. Mr. T. was ten years in the South, and in that time became acquainted with the institution in all its aspects; and we have no doubt that he has appropriate words with which to embody the facts and ideas that he would communicate. Mr. T. may be addressed at Aurora, Ill.

GOV. KIRKWOOD.

It is unfortunate for Gov. Kirkwood, of Iowa, that during the first month of his administration, he is involved in a conflict with the commonwealth of Virginia, in relation to a matter so delicate as the surrender of a fugitive from justice. But in spite of the howls of the Democracy, he has the gratification of knowing that his refusal to be a party to the surrender of Coppic, on the strength of papers which were manifestly deficient in their authentication, will be approved by law-abiding men all over the country. It may be the practice in Virginia, where lynchings take the place of legal trials and punishments, to give up citizens upon what is mere hearsay; but Gov. Letcher may understand that such is not the rule in the Northwest.

Port Byron.

That efficient officer, Mr. R. H. Webster, of Port Byron, who lately arrested the counterfeiter Johnston, in that vicinity, writing us concerning Old Bigelow, now in Cook county jail, says that more of the gang in his section of the State are shaking in their boots, and that they will probably give leg bail for their good behavior. 'Put 'em through, is the word.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Franking Privilege Question—Abolition of the Post Office Department—Scheme to Keep Kansas out of the Union.

[Special Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, February 15, 1860.

Yesterday was consumed in the House in discussion on the amendments of the Senate to the Post Office Appropriation bill, in five minute speeches. A couple of dozen were made—all of them on the sixth amendment proposing to abolish the Franking privilege, and to repeal all laws allowing matter to pass free through the mails. It was finally rejected by the decisive vote of ayes 60, noes 112, being more than two-thirds. The only Northern members who voted for the proposition were Briggs, Sickles, and Cochrane, of New York; Larrabee, of Wisconsin; Joy Morris and Killinger, of Pennsylvania; Scott, of California; Porter, of Indiana, and Riggs, of New Jersey—nine in all.

The proposition was opposed on various grounds. 1st. That it was not germaine to the bill before the House—that it was an improper amendment to make to an appropriation bill. 2d. That the subject of abolishing the Franking Privilege was one that should be embraced in a carefully drawn bill, consisting of many sections, to guard against evils and injuries that would necessarily fall on the public service. 3d. That its repeal would not add materially to the revenues of the department, nor would it cheapen the transportation of the mails, as railroads and steamboats would charge precisely the same after its abolition as before. A railroad charges the Department for the use of a car. Whether it carries five hundred or one thousand pounds of mail matter per trip, makes no odds with the contractors, as the mail bags are not conveyed by weight; hence nothing could be gained in transportation. 4th. That the weight of franked matter passed through the mails is not one hundredth part of the gross avordupois of the whole mail matter, newspapers and periodicals included. Therefore, even if the mails were carried by the ton, the saving would not be one per cent. deduction on the present cost of transportation. 5th. That if franking was abolished, Congress would make special appropriations out of the National Treasury for the payment of postages for members of Congress, President and Cabinet, and Postmasters, to defray the cost of their official correspondence of all kinds. At best, this would only be taking money out of one pocket and paying it into the other; but it would open the door to innumerable frauds and abuses. 6th. Suppose Congress should appropriate $800 a year to pay the postage of each member, some of them would spend the whole sum for the purpose contemplated, and others would put the most of it in their pockets. The same abuse would run through the whole public service, and the Treasury would be made to bleed at ten thousand pores. 7th. But suppose that every public officer is compelled to pay the postage on his official correspondence, the next thing done would be to increase the salaries of those functionaries—that of members from $3,000 up to $4,000 per annum, for instance. 8th. Not less than eight thousand postmasters would throw up their little offices, if the privilege now enjoyed by them of franking their private correspondence were taken from them. [...] the pay attached is too insignificant [...] time in [...] sate them for the bother [of] those offices. Special charging that would have to be made to them out of the Treasury, which, in the aggregate, would amount to ten times as much as all the postage the government would gain.

Many other objections were raised, which I have not space to mention. The Senate will be obliged to recede from its amendment, as the House will not let it be engrafted on the Post Office appropriation bill. A great many members are in favor of abolishing the whole Post Office Department and directing the Government to contract with the Express companies to convey and deliver the mails of the United States, at the present rates of postage. If the Express companies would make a definite and satisfactory proposition to Congress, I really believe there is a majority in both branches ready and willing to make a contract with them, and turn the whole mail business over to them. This would be the most beneficent reform that ever was adopted in this country. It would strike down, at one blow, three fourths of the overshadowing and corrupting patronage of the Executive. The mails would be carried with more celerity than at present; they would be delivered more promptly; there would be responsibility for money lost; all mail robberies and purloining of letters would cease, and when any man suffered loss he would be sure of prompt reparation. There would be despatch, regularity, efficiency, politeness and safety guaranteed to the public in the transmission and receipt of their postal matter—whether written or printed—instead of the present system of delays, irregularity, insufficiency, insolvency, and insecurity. It is believed that the Express companies would gladly take the contract, and could make money out of the job, while the Government is losing five millions a year; because, 1st, they would be at little or no cost for transporting the mails, as they have an Express car chartered, with an Express agent in it, on all the railroads, and a similar arrangement on steamboats and other public conveyances; 2d, they have offices and agents provided at nearly every station or village in the United States. Hence, the two vast items of expense incurred by the Government, in compensating an army of Post Masters and conveying the mails, would be in a great measure avoided by the Express companies. The whole cumbrous circumlocution of the present Post Office system would be wiped out, and the immense expense required for its support would be dispensed with.

Members of Congress say, that if there is to be a reform, let it be a comprehensive and a useful one, and not a sham, such as that which would follow from the adoption of the Senate amendment to abolish official franking. Is not this the common sense view of the matter?

One of the Senate amendments which the House concurred in gives out the printing of the Post Office blanks to the lowest bidder. This provision will save the Treasury from thirty to fifty thousand dollars per year over the old way. Another amendment confines the allowance of interest on the deferred debt to contractors to themselves, and not to their assignees, on condition that they relinquish all claims to damages, the interest being in lieu of damages. The amendment was a very proper and judicious one, as it will not only confer a benefit on the contractors, who have been shoved pretty deeply by assignees, but it will save the Government from fighting a thousand vexatious law suits for damages, in the Court of Claims.

In the Senate, Brown, of Mississippi, offered a resolution inquiring whether a census of the inhabitants of Kansas had been taken preliminary to the proceedings which have resulted in the formation and ratification of the Wyandotte Constitution. The discussion was participated in by Messrs. Brown, Doolittle, Pugh, Collamer, Seward, Mason, Bayard and others.

The Republican members contended that it was too late to to raise that inquiry, and also that Kansas unquestionably contained ample population to entitle her to admission. A very defective census, taken some time ago, under the orders of the Territorial Legislature, reports 70,000 people; but several Counties were not enumerated at all. The number of voters was ascertained to exceed 24,000, which would indicate over 100,000 inhabitants. The census to be taken next summer will find more than that many people. The question of population is raised by the South for the sole purpose of excluding Kansas until after the Presidential election. It is notorious that Oregon contained less than half the population of Kansas when she was admitted into the Union. But she was Democratic, while Kansas is Republican; that makes all the difference in the world with the fire-eaters.

Grow will introduce a bill into the House in a few days for the unqualified admission of Kansas into the Union under the Wyandotte Constitution. The fire eaters will attempt to prevent the passage of the bill, by raising all sorts of objections, and practicing all kinds of filibustering tactics. But the bill will be put through under the previous question, by a decided majority. Several of the Americans and all the straight Anti-Lecompton Democrats will vote with the Republicans for it. Some of the corkleg Douglasites will oppose her admission, on some flimsy pretext, but really because she will be a Republican Free State. When the bill gets to the Senate, the present intention of the slaveholders is to change her boundaries, so as to make the new State embrace all the territory south of the Platte River, and east of the Utah! The object of this scheme is to destroy the possibility of making any more free States on this side of the Rocky Mountains for many years to come. They propose to throw into Kansas Territory enough to make three large States. According to their proposed boundaries, Kansas will be eight hundred miles long by three hundred miles broad, and will contain nearly a quarter of a million of square miles! Its boundaries, as described under the Wyandotte Constitution, makes a State 300 miles from East to West, and 200 miles from North to South, containing 60,000 square miles, which is larger than Illinois or Iowa. But as the mail is about closing, I will have to defer the farther consideration of this important subject, with the single remark, that the Republicans in Congress will not consent to any enlargement or change of the boundaries fixed by the people themselves in their Wyandott Constitution.

CHICAGO.

THE FARM AND GARDEN.

WEST URBANA, Feb. 14, 1860.

A CHAPTER ON SPRING WHEAT.

The cultivation of Spring Wheat has now become one of the great leading features of agriculture in the Northwest, and extending as far South as the line of the Great Western Railroad of Illinois. To a great extent, the culture of Winter Wheat has been abandoned in the same territory as unprofitable. This grain delights in a heavy clay, or clay loam, but will not thrive on sandy or dark loamy soils, especially if the latter prove rather moist. In the early settlement of the country, this crop was looked upon as very uncertain, and as a whole, unprofitable; but further experience has demonstrated that the fault lay mainly in ignorance of the proper preparation of the soil and the time of sowing.

OF PLOWING AND THE SOIL.

This must be done in the autumn, for it is useless to sow on spring plowed land, as the chances are two to one against success. Plow deep, at least eight inches, and if the land is not very rolling, throw it into narrow lands, say twenty feet wide, with a deep, dead furrow to carry off the water, as it is absolutely necessary that the surface water is quickly carried off, as a few hours by standing it will seriously injure the young plants. If these dead furrows are not sufficiently deep already, they should have the plow passed once or twice along them, after the harrowing is completed. The outside coating of the straw is composed of sand and potash combined, or what chemists denominate silicate of potash, or liquid glass; this is common to all the cereals and grasses. In our clay loams there is about seventy-five per cent. of sand or silex, and less than one per cent. of potash. Had not nature made a wise provision for the preservation of the substance, so important to the wheat crop, this small supply would soon become exhausted and wheat growing would prove a perfect failure. Potash must be exposed to air and moisture in order to disintegrate or dissolve its particles, that it may in turn form a new combination with the silex to supply the outside coating of the straw, in order to give it the desired strength to stand up. This disintegration of potash is a slow process even in summer, and hence the value of summer fallow for winter wheat. When land is plowed in the spring, the potash which has become dissolved during the winter exposure being buried by the plow beyond the reach of atmospheric influence to any extent, soon becomes fixed and requires exposure to again dissolve it. Thus to all practical intents the spring plowed land is deprived of its potash to that extent that the crop supply is deficient. Oats requiring less of potash, will produce a fair crop, yet not as good as on fall plowed land. Corn also requiring an abundant supply to coat its immense stalks, but for the continued summer fallow consequent on its culture, would also languish. The harrowing of Winter wheat in Spring, or of Spring wheat a few inches high, after heavy rains have beaten down the soil and encrusted the surface, is of great value in areating the soil, in order to increase the supply of potash, as well as to retain that already disintegrated, which, otherwise, from cutting off the supply of air by this thin clay incrustation, would soon be beyond the power of the young rootlets to absorb it. Every intelligent farmer will thus see that Autumn plowing is in accordance with nature, assisting her processes in the preparation of the soil. The winter frost acts on the upturned furrow, and crumbles down and disintegrates its elements of fertility; and to farm successfully we must study and observe the natural laws or our labor is thrown away.

We have thus explained the main reason for Fall plowing as a general thing; we will next consider the effect of

THE PRECEDING CROP.

Wheat, of all the cereals, requires the largest amount of potash, and hence that crop that will retain the largest quantity in a free state is the best to precede it. Thus the crop of corn, of potatoes, of beans and of roots or green crops, as they are termed, by the culture required and the exposure of a large part of the surface, are admirably adapted to prepare the soil for a wheat crop; so also of a clover or timothy meadow, which always retaining the free potash near the surface are of no small value, and when our farmers resume the culture of winter wheat, which they will at no distant day, it will be on underdrained meadow land turned over in August and sown immediately after.

If the corn crop has been well cultivated it is of little consequence whether the land is again plowed before sowing or not, so far as regards the yield, provided that the seed is thoroughly harrowed in. When the corn is husked early in the fall, the entire crop of stalks can be plowed under by applying a weed-hook to the plow-beam, and they will not be in the way of the harrow [...] sowing in the spring. The stalks [...] plowed under will serve to drain the land and to keep up its fertility by returning to the soil the whole amount of potash drawn from it by the preceding crop. Potatoes, beans and green crops have the effect of summer fallow without absorbing the potash, hence the luxuriant growth of spring wheat after all these crops; but these crops are often put upon the black loamy soils, and in such cases the growth of straw is increased and the grain is often shrunk. Flax is another crop as deserving of attention, as valuable to precede wheat. At present so little is grown as hardly to be worth noticing, but we have reason to know that American genius is not sleeping over the idea of flax cotton as a myth, but is slowly yet surely perfecting the process that shall ere long place it among the triumphs of the age.

WHEN TO SOW.

This will depend much on the latitude and the season. As a general rule for this State, we would say as soon after the first of March as the weather will permit. We would not wait for the frost to get out and the land to settle, but so soon as the top was sufficiently thawed to harrow well, would put on the seed, no matter if a sudden freeze should close up the ground for a fortnight after; if the land is well drained the seed will not rot if well covered in. In sowing thus early, the ground will be for a long time encrusted with frost in the morning; in the meantime the wheat will come up and will extend its roots ready for a vigorous start when the warm April showers shall fall on it. After harrowing the ground should be rolled so as to crush all the clods. The night freezing and morning thawing process will pulverize the surface and leave it in fine tilth, its pours will be open to heat and air, and the dense foliage thus stimulated will smother out the weeds and the wheat crop will monopolize the soil. The land being well drained, the heavy spring rains will soon pass off and leave the soil in good condition, and as the luxuriant growth will cover the soil and prevent evaporation, a long continued drouth would have little power to check its growth.

ENEMIES AND DRAW BACKS.

Among these are weeds, oats, cockle, wild mustard, rust, smut, the chinck bug, and other insects. The weeds we have already disposed of in the course of culture recommended.

The oats should be washed out, or rather swam out in brine made sufficiently strong to float an egg; after being put in a basket to drain, mix with the yet damp wheat a small quantity of dry slacked lime just sufficient to whiten the grain; this will prevent any smut on the crop and need not be repeated every year. Cockle and wild mustard must be destroyed by cultivating hard crops. By sowing early and keeping the crop in a growing condition through the Spring, it will have attained such a state of maturity before the hot weather of July, that the danger from rust will be materially lessened. On the other hand, if the growth is checked by winter, heavy rains or drouth, a favorable condition of things so stimulates the growth, that if followed by hot showery weather, or by clear hot days, the crop will be in danger. The chinch bug seldom damages the early sown Spring wheat, while the late sown or that in which the growth has been checked by bad culture, falls a sure prey to its ravages; and in view of this we can only again urge early sowing and such culture and preparation of the soil as will induce early maturity of the crop.

CHANGE OF SEED.

Much stress has been laid on the change of seed; that is, bringing seed from distant points. To some extent this is of value; seed from heavy timber land or the stiff clay of the burr oak opening, transferred to the prairie, and vice versa, we would commend, even if the distance was less than a mile; we would prefer seed from the South rather than from the North, as tending to more early maturity, but the changes need not be made oftener than once in three or four years.

VARIETIES.

Here doctors will disagree, and it seems quite necessary that enterprising seedsman should rename and introduce old sorts that have for a time been superceded by others. Some years since the "Red River" was all the go, but it became, from some cause, perhaps the want of change, unproductive. It has been returned to us rejuvinated and made popular under the name of "Canada Club," and we have the old "Siberians" under the cognomen of "Rio Grande."—The bald wheats make pure white flour when of good quality, while the bearded wheats all give a yellow tinge to it, but without impairing its value.

SPRING WHEAT VS. WINTER.

Under our present system of farming, labor applied to the culture, harvesting, thrashing and marketing of winter wheat, is of the most expensive kind, being at that season of the year when farm labor is most in demand; besides, winter wheat is a biennial, and is at the expense of two years' rent. We do not say this is a matter of necessity, for we think it is not, but it is the common practice. On the other hand, the plowing for spring wheat is done after the hurry and heat of summer, when both man and team are capable of a large days' work. The seeding is done before any other spring work can be accomplished, and hence at a cheap rate. The wheat will stay well in the stack, as the upright heads are better for stacking than the bending heads of winter wheat, and should be left in the stack until winter, when labor is cheap and the straw and chaff valuable for fodder; for these, if no other season's spring wheat will pay a better net profit than winter wheat, even if the same number of bushels per acre should be grown, but which is not the case.

CROPS TO FOLLOW.

Oats are an excellent crop to follow, as the growth of straw will be moderate and the yield large, with little danger of lodging, but when oats are not desirable, almost any crop, except wheat and barley, will do well, and even these will do well, if the ground is broken deeper and a successive layer of clay brought up, for this clay holds the latent potash. Corn is a favorite crop to follow after spring wheat, but to our mind the great crop should be clover and timothy for meadow and pasture, which might lie over two or three years, then broken up for corn to be followed again with spring wheat.

We have thus aimed to call the attention of our readers to both the scientific and practical facts in the culture of this grain which is now occupying so prominent a position among the great staples of the North West. RURAL.

"A JOURNEY DUE NORTH."

Suffering and Death on the Prairies.

Mr. R. Anthony called upon us on Saturday, and supplied us with the following relation of the terrible sufferings which he, in connection with three others, suffered on the prairies, on the route between St. Paul and Fort Gerry. Seldom have we met with a more melancholy narrative than that which Mr. Anthony recounts.

On the first of December last, I was sent by Messrs. P. W. Gates & Co. of Chicago, to repair the boiler of the steamboat Anson Northrup, lying twenty-eight miles west of Fort Gerry, in the Red River of the North. When I reached La Crosse, I was detained three days by the floating ice in the Mississippi, which prevented my crossing. When we reached the west side we met a man who fell dead on the ice from fright, as was supposed, as the crossing, owing to the amount of floating ice, was very dangerous. When I reached St. Paul, I was directed by J. C. Burbank, one of the proprietors of the Minnesota Stage Company, and part owner of the steamer Anson Northrup, to go to St. Cloud, where a man with a span of mules was waiting to take me to Georgetown, a newly established station belonging to the Hudson's Bay Company, at the mouth of the Buffalo River, 308 miles northwest of St. Paul. On our journey thither we met a man who had his feet and hands so fearfully frozen that amputation was necessary, and his friends were bringing him to St. Paul for the purpose of having the operation performed. We also met another young man who was suffering from a fever, and in the night while suffering from his fever, he had placed his feet outside the bed and they had been so badly frozen that amputation was rendered necessary. Many like cases, but none quite so distressing as those I have mentioned, transpired during our journey. On the 15th of December, during a furious snow storm, and the weather bitterly cold, we missed our road, and lost our way. We finally came to a house at Graham's Point, but found no one inhabiting it except a large bull dog, whose manifestations were of so unfriendly a character that we deemed it expedient not to undertake to enter the house, but resorted to a wood-shed near at hand, and lodged in it for the night. The next morning we proceeded on our journey, and were obliged to fast until about ten o'clock the next day. This fasting I had never got used to, and it by no means produced a pleasant sensation, the inner man protesting very violently against it. But harder times than these were to come.

In ten days after leaving St. Paul, we reached Georgetown, where a party with dog-teams was to be awaiting our arrival to take us forward to Gerry. They were not there. After six days waiting on Friday, December 23, after providing our selves with only five or six days supplies, which Mr. Mackenzie, having charge of the place, said would be enough, we started with mules, having Mr. Mackenzie as our guide. The company consisted of Mr. Mackenzie, David Tait, myself and the man who came with me from St. Paul. We took an easterly direction, in order to fall in with the Crow Wing trail. We got along very well for four or five days, crossing the Wild Rice river, Snake Hill river, and Red Lake river. On the 28th, it snowing and blowing furiously all day, we left our sled on the prairie and camped in a small grove near Snake river that night. Not having anything for the mules to eat, we turned them loose to seek their own food in the bushes. We went to work and cut wood, shoveled the snow built a fire, got supper, spread our blankets and laid down for the night. We had about as much flour as would make pancakes for breakfast, and in the night one of the mules got to it, and eat the whole, including the bag. Here was a pleasant prospect; in the heart of a vast, dreary, unknown prairie, in the cold, bleak month of December, very far beyond the reach of all sympathy and aid, with starvation staring us in the face—our condition might have been considered desperate. On the morning of the 29th of December, Mr Mackenzie and myself started on ahead, thinking to reach Pembina that night, and send back food for our companions and the mules. I started, backed on a mule, but the morning was so cold that I could not ride, and then attempted to drive him, but the wind was blowing so badly and the snow drifting so fast, that the mule would not face it. Myself and Mackenzie finally reached a little poplar grove, about ten miles from where we started in the morning, where we stopped, made a fire and waited for our companions to come up. Mr. Mackenzie then asked me for matches, saying he meant to be in Pembina before 12 o'clock that night. He then proceeded, and I waited for our companions. When they reached me, we followed Mr. Mackenzie, and after proceeding about one mile, we met him returning, he finding it too cold to proceed, and we all camped together that night, having nothing but some hot tea to relieve our hunger. On the morning of the 30th, after having some tea, Mr. Mackenzie again started, thinking to reach Pembina that day, and send back provisions, &c., for the party and mules. But poor, brave-hearted Mackenzie never reached Pembina. He seemed to have a presentiment when he left that he would not get through, and he made David Tait a present of his gun, in case he should have no further need of it. He wore but one thin coat, and was lightly clad throughout, wishing to be as little burdened with clothes as possible, as he intended to run most of the way. A bit of pemican, about the size of his fist, was all the food the party had, and this was given to him, although he protested against taking it at all. He then started, and we followed until we crossed the Pine River, and got upon what is called Big Prairie. Here it was so bitter cold, with the wind blowing furiously and the snow flying in our faces, that we were obliged to take shelter in a small poplar grove, and remain there all day and night. We were in hopes Mackenzie would return; but we never saw him again alive. On the morning of the 31st of December, we started over the Big Prairie in the hopes of reaching the timber-land before dark, but we were all so fatigued that night came on before we reached the timber, and we lost our way, and the mules could proceed no farther. We laid our blankets and robes on the snow, and slept into the morning of the new year, when we arose, and proceeded to the timber, made a fire, made some tea, and after an hour or two, started for the Big Point, where we found our road. After we had proceeded about seven or eight miles, one mule could proceed no further, and laid down and died. That night we got within twenty miles of Pembina, and on Monday, January 2d, David Tait pushed forward to Pembina, and found that Mackenzie had not been there. He immediately despatched two men—half-breeds—with dog trains and provisions to supply our wants. They reached us about one o'clock on Tuesday morning, the 3d of January. The first sound of their voices, as they approached us, was like the voices of angels, and it was pleasant to our ears. The wants of the inner man were very soon supplied, and at daybreak the party which came to our relief started in search of poor Mackenzie, and we for Pembina, which we reached in the afternoon. They sought him in vain all that day and night, and on Wednesday they came upon traces which brought them to his corpse. After leaving us, he seems to have followed the trail for a considerable distance, and then to have lost his way. Night came upon him, and bewildered by the growing darkness and the drifting snow, he made towards a clump of trees, with the intention, probably, of kindling a fire. If such was his object, he seems to have been unable to accomplish it; and his beaten track shows that to keep himself from freezing, he had spent the hours of that lonesome night in running round in a circle. With the break of day, he started across the trackless waste, every step that he took carrying him further and further from the spot which he was straining every nerve to reach. Another weary day of fruitless travel was followed by a second night more dreary even than the first. Again he managed to stave off what he must have felt to have been the hour of his dissolution by long hours of ceaseless activity. A th[illegible] day's journey brought him towards Lac des Roseaux. Here he attempted to run round as before. But the strength and courage which had heretofore sustained him, now forsook him.

He dragged his tired footsteps through the loose snow towards a tree, from which be plucked a branch and hung thereon a shred of his tattered coat as a signal to mark his dismal resting place; he next tore off another branch of the same tree, which he placed as a pillow for his cold bed, and then laid upon it his weary head and died. The powerful body and determined spirit which had so long braved the merciless storm, in spite of hunger and fatigue, had at last to succumb! His right hand was on his heart, and his left hung by his side, firmly holding a compass. The body gave indications of having undergone intense suffering. Some portions of it had been frozen and thawed many times in succession, before death intervened and released it from farther anguish.

I cannot sufficiently express my thanks to those gentlemen who contributed so much to our comfort, after we had been without food for five days. Some of them left a ball to come to our rescue. The half breeds at Pembina are as generous hearted set of people as can be found.

I finally arrived at the place where the steamboat lay on the 10th of January. My journey back was very pleasant, having traveled nearly five hundred miles. I return to the steamboat on or about the 1st of March, to put it in order to run on the Red River of the North as soon as it is clear of ice.

R. ANTHONY.

☞ Charles G. Greene, of the Boston Post, not long since wrote of G. W. Kendall—founder of one of the New Orleans papers, but now a farmer in Texas—calling him "old Mr. Kendall." Mr. Kendall, in a recent letter to a New York friend, flings the following brick in return:

"When a boy in Boston, some years since, I was acquainted with an elderly gentleman named Greene—C. G. Greene, Charles Gordon, I think, his name was spelled in full. If still alive, be kind enough, my dear Joe, to remember me to him. He was the founder of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, commanded at its formation, and long enjoyed the title of Colonel. These old Revolutionary links, binding us, as they do, to a past age, should be cherished. There are but few left."

REPUBLICAN VICTORY AT MATTOON.—An election was held in Mattoon, Coles county, on Tuesday for town Constable, which resulted in the election of Justin C. Smith, Republican, by 35 majority.

The Meeting of Railroad Men at Indianapolis.

FINAL PROCEEDINGS.

[From the Cincinnati Gazette.]

The Chair stated that the meeting had been called to adopt uniform rates of freight from Cincinnati to Western and Northwestern points, which now became necessary by the opening of the Logansport, Peoria and Burlington Railroad.

The question was asked by the Chair whether the Logansport Road had made through rates, and if so, whether any gentleman had them.

Mr. Lord replied that the rates had not yet been made, and until it was known what they were to be, the meeting could not very well fix through rates, as the Logansport Road was the shortest line, and would have the right to make them. After some discussion, Mr. Lord offered the following resolution, which he thought would meet the point:

Resolved, That the lines represented here agree to adopt the rates made by Logansport, Peoria and Burlington Railroad line to all points where they compete, and pro rata the same to Peoria and points west of that.

Mr. Moore of the Chicago, Alton & St. Louis Road, could not agree so far as his road was concerned to the adoption of this resolution. It would not be their interest to pro-rate with the lines round by Chicago when they had a more direct connection with Indianapolis by the Logansport road. He was, however, willing to agree to the proposition, provided Bloomington, Atlanta, Lincoln and Springfield were omitted, and he would give the roads prorating with them special arbitrary rates to this point.

Mr. Lord then amended his resolutions by adding—"and pro-rate the same through Indianapolis, Lafayette and Michigan City, to which they are the shortest line;" and that it should be understood by the Cincinnati agents of the lines reaching Chicago, to except the points named by Mr. Moore in their contracts, and to which they should be furnished with special rates.

This resolution, as amended, was then adopted.

The transportation of grain from Chicago to Cincinnati was next brought up. It was stated that wheat was being brought to Cincinnati at 30 cents, when 35 cents was the rate agreed upon between the lines leading out of Chicago. Mr. Lord said the Illinois Central had made contracts at 30 cents, and that the wheat was coming over his road via Mattoon.

Mr. Knowlton stated that both the Michigan Central and Michigan Southern Roads had refused to contract at 30 cents, as the rate had been fixed at 35 cents.

Mr. Lord replied that the rates between Cincinnati and Chicago were much higher in proportion to the New York rates. 30c from Chicago to Cincinnati was equal to 85c from Cincinnati to New York, whereas, the current rate was only 55c. He thought 30c paid the roads very well, but he should be opposed to making the rate any lower. He said the rates of freight on grain between the two cities ought to be regulated, in a measure, by the market prices in those cities. His road had taken to Cincinnati, for consumption there, several thousand bushels of Milwaukee and Illinois wheat, bought in Chicago, which paid the roads 30c per hundred pounds. Had the rate been 35c, not one pound of this wheat would have gone forward, as there would then have been no margin in favor of the miller. He was in favor of making a rate that would command the property, so long as it paid the road a fair profit for its transportation. He had for months declined any through Eastern freight at the present rates, and could not touch this wheat except at fair remunerative prices.

Mr. Lilley asked how the rates were to be regulated between the several competing lines, and what should be the minimum price.

Mr. Knowlton suggested that the matter be left to the Chicago agents of the several lines, who were on the ground, and that they could meet and agree among themselves when occasion required, upon rates. They could be governed by circumstances, and if the rates were made too low it remained for the lines to carry the property or to decline it, or they might give the agents rates below which they should not go.

Without adopting any resolution to that effect the proposition or suggestion seemed be agreed to by those present.

The next matter discussed was a proposition by Mr. Knowlton, to make uniform through rates to Philadelphia and Baltimore, via. the several lines out of Chicago.

It was suggested that this could not well be done at the present meeting, as all the lines were not represented. It was, however, understood that in the meantime the lines represented should consider the rates agreed upon at Chicago last September, in force until another meeting should be held, to adopt new rates.

The Convention was in session from 2 to 6 in the afternoon, and adjourned as all Railroad Conventions do, without accomplishing much.

Robbing the Mails.

[From the Sandusky Register, Feb. 16.]

For some weeks past W. S. V. Prentiss, special Agent of the United States Mail Department, has been conscious that letters have been extracted from the mails on the line of the C. & T. Railroad. He has been pursuing his researches for some time, to ascertain who the thief was, but was unsuccessful until yesterday. Letters were traced to Monroeville, the junction of the S., M. & N., and the Southern Division of the C. & T. Railroads, where they unaccountably disappeared. A thorough search was at once instituted, and on Sunday last about two bushels of letters were found in the vault of a privy near the depot.

Suspicion attached to the telegraph operator at that point, on the Sandusky, Mansfield and Newark Railroad, a lad fifteen years of age, named Henry D. Kunkle, and yesterday he confessed to having carried on a system of robbing the mails for a period of nearly a year past.—The mails were changed at Monroeville, from the C. & T. road to the S. M. & N. R. R., and vice versa, and the mail bags frequently lay in the telegraph office, where it was customary to leave them for the space of twenty four hours, and sometimes longer. He said he used to shake the letters down to the mouth of the bag, and get possession of the letters by inserting a thumb and finger between the staples through which the strap passes, by which the bag is fastened. He acknowledged that he had got about $150 out of the mails, but it is estimated that the sum of about $400 is missing. To show how expeditious he was, a draft for $450 was mailed at Oberlin for Mansfield, on Saturday last, at 10 o'clock, A. M., and at 10 A. M. the following day the letter was found among the other letters in the privy.

His mother is a respectable widow lady at Monroeville, and she is nearly distracted about her son, who is her main support. The lad was taken to Cleveland last night, on the six o'clock train, to await in jail an examination. He had been nearly two years in the employ of the S., M. & N. Railroad Company, and was much liked.

Mysterious Affair at New Albany.

[From the New Albany (Ind.) Ledger.]

A correspondent writing from Leavenworth, Ind., states that a young man named George H. Caldwell is supposed to have been drowned or murdered at that place on Sunday night. He resided in Kentucky, and came across in a skiff to Leavenworth and passed the evening at the residence of a young lady to whom he was paying his addresses. He left here about half-past nine o'clock, and shortly afterward some of the citizens residing near the wharf were aroused by somebody, evidently at the landing, shouting, "Murder, murder! Help, for God's sake!" followed by a splashing sound as of a heavy body falling into the water. Several whose windows commanded a view of the wharf leaped out of bed and endeavored to discover from whom these cries had proceeded, but neither they nor some flat-boatmen near the spot, who were startled by the cries, could perceive anybody on or near the wharf. The next morning Caldwell was missing, and his skiff caught fifteen or twenty miles below Leavenworth, with the oars carefully laid under the seats. The young lady states that Caldwell was inebriated, and that when he left he informed her he was going across with three drunken men who were waiting for him. Who those three men were has not yet been ascertained. Blood was found on some rocks where his skiff was seen fastened in the evening, from which, and other facts, many infer that he was probably murdered, his body thrown into the river, and the skiff sent adrift to draw off suspicion. Others, however, conjecture that he was too highly intoxicated to manage his skiff, and upon getting into it and casting loose from the shore he fell overboard and was drowned.

The Maryland Opposition.

The Baltimore Patriot thus defines the position of the Opposition party in Maryland, in reference to national politics:

"The Americans of Maryland are not to be sold like cattle to the Black Disunion Democrats, let their representatives vote as they may, in Congress or in the Legislature, let venal presses prate as they may, at home or abroad. They are not to be wheedled into the formation of a third party, for the purpose of giving Maryland over to the Charleston Black Disunion Democratic ticket. They have eyes, and "with optics keen," they see whither certain would-be leaders, at home and abroad, are rowing, though they pretend to be looking another way. They will never consent that Maryland shall be swamped in the slough of Black Disunion Democracy, at the bidding of any man, or set of men. They will sustain Mr. Davis for refusing to vote for any Black Disunion Democrat for Speaker. They will sustain Mr. Harris for voting for Mr. Lucas, the Republican Postmaster of the House, against any Black Disunion Democrat whatever. They will consign to merited oblivion every man who shall seek to fasten Maryland to the car of the "pirate traitors," who proclaim their intention to inaugurate a defeated candidate for the Presidency by force of arms."

Gold Discoveries in Missouri

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16.—The discovery of gold in South east Missouri has been further confirmed by recent examinations. The gold bearing rock consists of an immense dyke, which has been traced for some six miles, and appears, at a point several miles distant from the locality first opened, to be as rich in precious metal as anywhere else. It is inexhaustible in depth, and will improve in richness in going down on it.

Mr. Reynolds, a blacksmith, of Frederickton, succeeded in obtaining several buttons of gold from the mine, by smelting the ore in a common forge fire.

☞ Martyred Heads.—Hundreds of heads of hair are ruined by the use of deleterious dyes for which no scientific authority is responsible.

CRISTADORO'S EXCELSIOR DYE

on the contrary, presents the highest scientific credentials. It has been analysed by Dr. Chilton, who stands at the head of our Experimental Chemists, and he states in his certificate that nothing injurious enters into its composition.

THIS UNQUALIFIED APPROVAL,

added to the well known fact that it is the most reliable and the most natural dye ever manufactured, have given it immense prestige, and the sales are running up from month to month, with a rapidity that severely taxes the energies and resources of the proprietor. ☞ Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.—The stomach is the fountain head of diseases which infest the human system. Indigestion, bad enough per se, generates diarrhoea, dysentery, faintness, vertigo, palpitation of the heart, general debility, &c. Get rid of it, then, at once, by going through a course of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, a palatable and refreshing preparation, which as surely relieves all complaints of the stomach and its dependencies, as the sunshine melts the snow. A course of the medicine may not perhaps be necessary. One bottle frequently accomplishes a complete cure.

THE GREATEST WONDER OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.

Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative.

Says the St. Louis, Mo., Democrat: Below we publish a letter to Dr. Wood, of this city, from a gentleman in Maine, which speaks glowingly of the superior merits of his hair tonic. Such evidence must have its effect, when coming from a reliable source. If certificates are guarantees of truth, the Dr. needs no encomiums, nor useless puffery from the press:

BATH, MAINE, Jan. 20, 1858.

Professor O. J. Wood & Co.—Gentlemen: Having my attention called a few months since to the highly beneficial effects of your hair restorative, I was induced to make application of it upon my own hair, which had become quite grey, probably one-third white; my whiskers were of the same character. Some three months since I procured a bottle of your hair restorative, and used it. I soon found it was proving what I had wished. I used it about twice a week. I have since procured another bottle, of which I have used some. I can now certify to the world that the grey or white hair has totally disappeared, both on my head and face, and my hair has resumed its natural color, and I believe more soft and glossy than it has been before for twenty-five years. I am now sixty years old; my good wife at the age of fifty-two years, has used it with the same effect.

The above notice I deem due to you for your valuable discovery. I am assured that whoever will rightly use as per directions, will not have occasion to contradict my statements. I am a citizen of this city and a resident here for the last fifteen years, and am known to nearly every one here and adjoining towns. Any use you may make of the above, with my name attached, is at your service, as I wish to preserve the beauties of nature in others as well as myself. I am truly yours

A. C. RAYMOND.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23, 1858.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

Professor Wood—Dear Sir: Having had the misfortune to lose the best portion of my hair, from the effects of the yellow fever, in New Orleans in 1854, I was induced to make a trial of your preparation, and found it to answer as the very thing needed. My hair is now thick and glossy, and no words can express my obligations to you in giving to the afflicted such a treasure. FINLEY JOHNSON.

The undersigned, Rev. J. K. Bragg, is a minister in regular standing, and pastor of the Orthodox Church at Brookfield, Mass. He is a gentleman of great influence and universally beloved. WM. DYER.

BROOKFIELD, Jan. 12, 1858.

Professor Wood—Dear Sir: Having made a trial of your Hair Restorative, it gives me pleasure to say that its effect has been excellent in removing inflammation, dandruff and a constant tendency to itching with which I have been troubled from my childhood; and has also restored my hair which was becoming grey, to its original color. I have used no other article with anything like the same pleasure or profit. Yours truly, J. K. BRAGG.

ANNUAL FOR THE SERVICE OF SACRED SONG IN BAPTIST CONGREGATIONS AND CHOIRS.

COLLATED BY B. F. EDMANDS,

Conductor of Music at the Baldwin place Church, Boston.

ROYAL 12mo., EMBOSSED CLOTH, $1.00.

This Manual is pronounced by competent judges superior to any collection of Sacred Music now in use. It is particularly rich in the good old tunes, embalmed in the praises of the sanctuary, dear to aged saints and hallowed in the memories of childhood. It contains every hymn of the Psalmist, the Hymn Book now in with the same numbering, and every hymn has one or more tunes attached to it. It is more convenient in size, and cheaper in price than any similar Manual, and is adapted to the use of Choirs as well as Congregations. Our Churches can now introduce at small expense, for the old editions of the PSALMIST will retain all their value, and only those will need to purchase the new edition, who wish to have the tunes before them in singing.

BEWARE OF INDIANA SHINPLASTERS.—Preston's Detroit Bank Note Reporter says: "There have not been any legitimate Banks started in Indiana for a year or more past, to our knowledge, either under the Free Bank Law or the Bank of the State; but Shinplaster Banks have been started every few weeks, with high sounding names and well engraved notes. Better to refuse all notes of new Banks in Indiana unless known to be legitimate."

CURIOUS ROBBERY.—A young man named John Erkhardt was arrested yesterday, charged with the larceny of a quantity of jewelry from a young lady to whom he was paying his attentions. He had courted her for three or four years, during which time he had presented her with about seventy-five dollars' worth of trinkets—a very liberal amount, considering his resources. She concluded, about two weeks ago that she wouldn't have him, having found another who suited her fancy better. There was a rumpus over this denouement, and the lover demanded his valuables back. She refused to give them up, and he accordingly carried off the box which contained them, having invaded the sacred precincts of her bed-room and seized it in spite of her. The question arises, whether a man must be compelled to furnish finery to adorn his rival's wife, or be upheld in a little judicious violence of feminine sensibilities.—Detroit Free Press.

WHIPPING HIS WIFE IN FUN.—A fellow by the name of Koerner, was arrested and brought in from the town of Racine (Wis.) says the Journal, for beating his wife. It appears that she had been beaten with a regular blacksnake whip until the wales were raised on her back as big as the whip which struck her. When the examination was going on before Justice Hinds, his good and forgiving frau came into court and testified that these exhibitions of the brute's wrath, were only love-pats, that he had only struck her in fun! The rascal went scot free.

Hon. Mr. Mason and the French Language.

[Translated from the Courier Des Etats Unis.]

The Hon. John Y. Mason, of Virginia, our late Minister at the French Court, understood but a few brief colloquial phrases of the language of Corneille and Racine. When he appeared for the first time at a ball at the Tuileries, feeling himself a stranger, and being unable to enter into conversation with those around him, he clung with particular pertinacity to the person of the British Ambassador. However, we must at some time part with this most agreeable or useful of companions.

Lord Cowley, who was engaged to take part in the imperial quadrille, was soon compelled to quit the company of his "American cousin."

"What am I to do?" said the unfortunate Mr. Mason.

"Wait," replied the obliging English Ambassador, who understood the dilemma of our Minister, "I will introduce you to the Russian Ambassador, who speaks English."

No sooner said than done, when the following dialogue took place between the two diplomats:

"Parlez vous, francais, Monsieur?" asked the Russian.

"Un pou, tres pou," replied Mr. Mason; who in turn immediately said in his vernacular to his interlocutor,

"But you, sir; you speak English?"

"Heu! heu! A schmall, a leetle schmall," replied the Muscovite.

And so the conversation was carried on, in detached sentences, for a short time, the Russian being as fluent in English as the American was in French. It is useless to say, that it lacked that scope and variety, which might have been expected from these high personages, who exchanged their ideas in unintelligible jargon to the music of a powerful orchestra.

It appears that Mr. Faulkner, who has recently been appointed to the post occupied by Mr. Mason, is about as able a linguist as his predecessor—particularly in his knowledge of the French language.

A Kentucky Village Destroyed by Fire.

A correspondent of the Georgetown Journal gives an account of a disastrous fire which laid waste almost the entire village of Stamping Ground, Scott Co., Ky. It occurred on Sunday night, and originated in the large new hotel of Mr. Hanor, and continued down Main street, consuming the grocery stores, of N. B. Risk, W. D. Poindexter, B. N. Bradford, a saddle-shop occupied by Mr. Schaffer; the residence of A. R. Samuel, the business house and residence of Levi Hersch, and John Owen's residence.

The flames crossing Main street, destroyed the stores of A. H. & J. T. Sinclair, Brown & Martin, and A. P. Samuel's grocery, containing nearly all the groceries and dry goods in the town, and what was saved is almost worthless. Most of the owners are but little able to sustain the loss. No insurance on anything except Levi Harsch's real estate to the amount of $800. A large portion of the real estate estate was owned by Mrs. Maria Hanor. The loss will not be less than $25,000 or $30,000.

Every business house and office in the town was destroyed, and many families were turned out of doors with no place to go except such as was furnished by the friends of humanity.

The same paper states that on Sunday night the distillery of Hary Smith, 2½ miles from Georgetown, was burned down, with several hundred bushels of wheat. Several other fires, but none of them involving much loss, are mentioned by the Journal.

Skating and Swimming Feat.

The Manchester (N. H.) American, records the following, with the remark that "it is one of the best feats of skating on record, at least in this vicinity."

George W. Doe, of this city, skated from Manchester to Lowell on Saturday afternoon, a distance of 33 miles, in two and a half hours. Stopping there long enough to take breath, he pushed on to Lawrence, thirteen miles more, in forty minutes. It was his intention to skate back the whole distance, returning the same afternoon, but he was prevented by having sprained his ankle.

We find a "companion" feat in the following account of a "strong swimmer."

A Sandwich Island boy recently deserted the whale-ship Franklin when twenty miles at sea, jumping overboard about eight o'clock at night, and swimming all night for the land. By daylight he was within half a mile of shore, but there encountered a strong opposing current, and after buffeting the waves in a vain endeavor to reach the beach, he saw a sail several miles to the leeward, changed his course for the vessel, striking out to sea again, and was on her deck by nine o'clock Friday morning, nothing harmed by his thirteen hours swim.

ARCTIC PALATES.—Bills of fare vary much, even in Greenland. I have inquired of Peterson, and he tells me that the Greenland Esquimaux (there are many Greenlanders of Danish origin) are not agreed as to which of their animals afford the most delicious food; some of them prefer reindeer venison; others think more favorably of young dog, the flesh of which he asserts, is "just like the beef of sheep." He said a Danish captain, who had acquired the taste, provided some for his guests, and they praised his mutton! After dinner he sent for the skin of the animal, which was no other than a large red dog! This occurred in Greenland, where his Danish guests had resided for many years, far removed from European mutton. Baked puppy is a real delicacy all over Polynesia; at the Sandwich Islands I was once invited to a feast, and had to feign disappointment as well as I could when told that puppy was so extremely scarce it could not be procured in time, and, and, therefore, sucking pig was substituted.—McClintock's Voyage of the Fox.

Financial and Commercial.

MONETARY.

SATURDAY EVENING, February 18, 1860.

This evening closes one of the dullest weeks of the season. There has been no change to notice in financial matters, and so far as this city is concerned, our money article for any day in the week would have answered about as well for any other. Exchange is steady at 2 per cent. premium for currency. Gold 2@2½, with few transactions. Buying rates ¼@½ below selling.

ST. LOUIS.—We quote the following from the Democrat of yesterday:

An unfavorable change has taken place in the Exchange market, buyers having difficulty in purchasing at yesterday's rates. Some of the Banks were in such light supply that they could not redeem their branch paper in exchange at 1 prem., so that we quote the general selling rate again at 1½ prem. for bankable funds. Exchange is likely to remain quite a cash article for some time to come. Some of the banks have in the last few days been purchasing drafts at the sub-Treasury with gold at ½.

Currency is in better demand to-day. Rates, however, are unaltered.

CINCINNATI.—The Gazette of yesterday says:

There was a fair, but not active demand for money to-day, and all the good paper offered was taken by the discount houses at 10@12 ₩ cent.

There was a heavier demand for exchange, but it was met freely, with more liberal receipts, and rates remained at 37½@40c prem. buying for New York and Philadelphia, and 37½c for Baltimore and Boston. For New York, 40c was the leading rate. Bankers' checks, on all the cities, sold at ½c prem. Nothing of importance done in gold. As coin accumulates dealers ship it, there being no other outlet for the article. Eastern bills were in good demand—with only moderate offerings. The rates were equal to 8@10 per cent., for 60 and 90 day paper.

Western currency is steady at 1½ dis for Missouri, and 2 dis for Illinois and Wisconsin. It is bought freely at these figures, with only moderate offerings.

The receipts of Hogs, live and dressed, to day amounted to 642. There was a good demand by packers and shippers and the market remains firm, with sales of dressed at $6.45@7.00, and live at $5.25 gross. Beef Cattle in good shipping demand, as well as a fair inquiry by packers and prices were a shade better.

The light stock of Provisions offering render the market very quiet; but holders are still firm. Bulk Meats advanced ¼c, with sales of about 5000 pcs shoulders, principally at 6¼c for packed. There is also a good inquiry for Lard and the market is firm at 10½c, at which 200 tcs changed hands.

The demand for flour was light, but holders do not manifest any disposition to make any concessions, and the market was quiet, with but sales at $4.55@4.90 for low grade to choice Spring extras, and $3.75 for fair Spring supers. The Wheat market to-day was considerably firmer, with a good milling and shipping demand, and limited sales were made at 96½@96½c for No. 2 Spring in store. The Corn market was very active to-day upwards of 60,000 bushels having changed hands. At the opening prices were steady at 42½c for No. 1 in store, and but little was done until about the close of 'Change, when the demand became quite active, and the market advanced to 43c—closing in the afternoon at 43c, with more buyers than sellers. In Oats we have to report a quiet but firm market—buyers and sellers being 1@2c apart, with but limited sales at 38c delivered. Rye unchanged. Barley firm. Timothy Seed in good demand and steady—$2.60@2.85 being paid for dirty to prime. Clover Seed, however, is a perfect drug, there being no inquiry for it, and a considerable stock offering. Hungarian Grass firm, with sales of inferior at $1.05. Millet Seed, 80c. Highwines steady at 20c. Hides unchanged.

NEW BOSTON, ILL.—A correspondent, under date of Feb. 13, writes as follows:—"Corn coming in very fast; 15,000 bushels sold last week at 38c f. o. b."

CINCINNATI SEED MARKET, FEB. 16.—Clover is dull; we quote prime to choice at $4.65@4.75. There is a great deal of inferior in the market, which is offered at $4.25@4.50. Timothy is in fair demand at $3.00@3.25 per bush for fair to choice.

THE LARD TRADE.—The Cincinnati Gazette, of yesterday, contains the following: This article being lower in proportion than any other article of the Hog product, leads to the pretty general adoption of the opinion, that the price of it must advance, and hence the even moderate demand is supplied with difficulty, at any rate below 10½c. The manufacturers are buying sparingly, and generally confine their purchases to the lower grades, or small parcels of country. One of our largest candle manufactories having been destroyed by fire, in part, and another wholly so, are not in operation, and will not be until next fall, and the others are not manufacturing largely, so that there will evidently be a large falling off in the quantity of lard used for candle making in this city, the current commercial year. The use of coal oil for illuminating purposes continues, to some extent, to check any disposition which may exist to speculate in Lard, and there seems to be no doubt that this Oil is being found in great abundance in Western Pennsylvania, and there can be but little doubt that the use of it for illuminating purposes will continue to increase very rapidly, as it makes the best and safest artificial light, except coal gas of any article ever introduced. In connection with the consumption of Lard, it is useless to deny that this is a most important consideration, and it is not surprising that it is exerting an influence upon the minds of those interested.

NEW YORK, FEB. 16.—Receipts, 1,177 bbls flour; 340 bu corn; 775 bu oats; 200 bu rye; 295 pkgs beef; 572 pkgs pork; 431 pkgs bacon; 1,81 pkgs lard; 1,487 Dressed Hogs. The circular of Edward Bills, under date of Feb. 14, contains the following:—

Since the date of my report of January 31, the transactions in Flour have been chiefly for the use of the retail trade of the city. In the execution of one or two Western speculative orders some animation was shown and a small advance in price, but generally the whole tone of the market has been dull and inactive. The late English advices are not encouraging, and serve to check that demand, the fortnight only showing a clearance to England of 5,356 bbls Flour and 41,055 bush Wheat from this port. The stock of Canadian Flour is quite light this season. Southern brands are more inquired for. At the close of business yesterday the demand for all descriptions was light, and the low grades were easier to be had.

For Wheat there is a rather better inquiry from the local millers, and more sales. The article is held with great firmness, and not being pressed, our prices are almost nominal. There is an export inquiry, but at rather lower than present rates. The California white, noticed in our last, has been sold at about $1.30 @1.35 per 60 lbs to the city millers. It was in good condition, but much mixed with Oats and Barley.

Rye is lower and more plenty. Indian Corn arrives freely, and in the absence of any material export demand and limited consumption by the distillers, prices continue low. In the clearances to Liverpool are 13,798 bushels—the first of the season.

CINCINNATI—Feb. 16.—The Gazette of yesterday thus reviews the market:

There was a sweeping speculative demand for bulk meats and bacon to-day, and the sales, nearly all of which were for future delivery, reached 1000 hhds of the latter and 3,000,000 lbs of the former. These transactions amounted in the aggregate to $325,000, but as the sales were mostly for March and April delivery, the day's business will not disturb the money market materially. Indeed money was not thought about to any great extent, and it is doubtful whether all the meat sold has an existence. In other words, the movement was a bold effort of the bulls to create an excitement. We do not mean to say that the sales were not made as reported, only that the transactions were not of a legitimate character, and indicate nothing except that parties are willing to bet extensively on a rise in the future. This sort of business damaged the trade last season. It may do so again. The sales for future delivery were at 6¾c and 8¾c for bulk shoulders and sides, and 8@10c for bacon do, and 11c for clear sides. There was also a sale of 700,000 lbs clear sides in bulk deliverable March 1st at 10c. For present delivery bulk meats sold at 6½ and 8½c for shoulders and sides, and bacon was offered at 7½@9¾c for shoulders and ribbed sides, with a very limited demand. These figures must be regarded as a fair indication of the real state of the market, so far as regards legitimate movements. The sales, as far as reported, are noted fully in our regular market review, except the following transactions, of which we heard late this afternoon: 100,000 lbs bulk sides, on the spot, at 8½c; 300 brls mess pork (country) at $17.50; 20,000 pcs shoulders and 12,000 pcs sides, in bulk, deliverable at Indianapolis, March 1st, at about $6 20 for the former and 8.65 for the latter, the buyer paying interest from to-day. There was some inquiry for lard at 10½@10¾c for prime barrel, the latter for city, but holders mostly ask 10½c. There was but little said about pork. This article appeared to be lost in the smoke raised by the sweeping movement in bulk and smoked meats.

ST. LOUIS PROVISION MARKET.—February 16—The Democrat of yesterday says:

The Provision market continues in favor of sellers. There are large quantities of bulk meat offered, with but few buyers; yet there was a sale of considerably over 1,000,000 lbs. of bulk hams, deliverable at Cincinnati, on favorable terms, but particulars kept private. And another holder could have taken 6½ and 8½ for a very large and choice lot of bulk meat deliverable at Quincy; but even this price would hardly bring it. There were considerable sales deliverable here at 6½, and 8½ for shoulders and rib sides. A speculative feeling exists in Lard, there being little left on the market, and its nature being such as not to allow its going into immediate consumption like meats.

PITTSBURGH, February 16.—Flour—We are able to report sales of 1213 bbls from store. For super $5.30@5.40. Extra $5.65@5.75; Extra Family, $5.90@6; Fancy, $6@6.37. Grain—1300 bush Corn, depot and store, at 60@65c. There are but few sales to report, and no great anxiety to sell at the offers of purchasers. Clover Seed—50 bush at $4.50.

LOUISVILLE PROVISION MARKET, Feb. 16.—The Journal says:

The sales of mess pork were 80 brls shipped to fill an order at $18 and 40 brls at the same. In bulk meats, a sale of 45,000 pieces shoulders, sides, and hams, equally divided, cut at Bedford, Ind., at 6½ and 8½c loose, delivered here. In bacon, sales of 500 casks from first hands to the trade, including 100 casks shoulders at 7½c, 50 casks ribbed sides at 10c, 100 casks ribbed sides, backbone out, at 10½c, 100 casks clear sides at 10½c, and 150 casks clear sides at 11c, also on orders in lots, 115 casks at 8c for shoulders, 10c for ribbed sides, 10½c for ribbed sides, backbone out, 89 tierces F. C. hams at 11½, and 50 tierces sugar cured hams at 11½c. A sale of 150 tierces Lebanon Lard at 10½c, a few tierces on orders at 10½, and 25 kegs at 11½c.

NEW YORK CATTLE MARKET.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING FEB. 15.

[Abridged from Thursday's New York Times.]

WEDNESDAY EVENING, Feb. 15, 1860.

The effect of last week's over supply of cattle, and the decline in price, was quite visible to-day. The receipts for the week were 1,440 less than last week—2,700 less than the weekly average of all last year. The general ... quality were also below the previous market. The decline in last week's prices was partially recovered, the advance yesterday and to-day being ... on the estimated dressed weight. Ordinarily, the small number of cattle on hand this week would have carried the rates up to a higher figure, but butchers have carried over considerable supplies of meat from the free purchases last week at ... The dealers who were disappointed on ... before might, but a few head ... sold locks would doubtless have brought down the closing rates materially. As it is, the butchers have got just a good selection of ... were ... so that the ... went home satisfied with the advance realized, and speculators who bought droves on the way have recovered some of the losses of previous weeks.

THE CATTLE SALES YESTERDAY AND TO-DAY.

The trade in cattle this week has been after the fashion of the stock operations at the Wall street Exchange. The brokers right or wrong concluded that the heavy market of last week would keep over cattle near at hand, when the state of the supply was but known, and learning of the smaller shipments from the West, quite a number of brokers met droves on the way and bought them up to the market rates. As the speculating fever increased, they bought of one another, and several droves changed hands, more frequently than at any of New York Central Railroad, which are limited to one trader on a day. It ... seemed, the business was a good thing for it this time, in part, at least, recovered the losses of last week. There being only 2,300 cattle yarded at Forty-fourth street, for Tuesday and Wednesday, most of which were in the yards on Tuesday morning—sales commenced early on that day, and before night nearly two-thirds of the cattle, including about all of the better grades, had found purchasers at over ½c advance from last week. The more tardy buyers of to day, finding so few cattle on hand, this morning took hold, and before 9 o'clock, p. m., the yards were about empty. Perhaps the snow storm which set in at noon to-day, hastened up transactions, butchers remembering the liabilities of a delay of cattle trains and a consequent short supply of beef.

Taking the average of the entire transactions of this week's market, yesterday's as being included in those of to-day, and setting those of last week for comparison, we have the following:

	To-day.	Last week.
Premium cattle	11c @ 12c	10¾@11c
First quality	10½ @ 10¾c	9¾@10c
Medium quality	9c @ 9¾c	9c @ 9½c
Poor quality	8c @ 8¾c	7c @ 8c
Poorest quality	7c @ 7½c	6c @ 6½c
General selling prices	9c @ 10c	7½@9c
Average of all sales	8¾c @ 9c	8c @ 8½c

The cattle were not as good, taking them as a whole, as last week, although there were a few lots of first-class bullocks, and a sprinkling of choice premium beeves, which found ready purchasers at high rates. For good killing steers, the prevailing rates of yesterday and to-day were 10@10½c, and nothing but ord nary beef went below 9c. As is usually the case with a short supply, any favor in estimating weights was on the side of the seller, so that it is quite likely a portion of the cattle cost the buyers more for the dressed meat than they were rated by the broker. Many of the butchers bought sparingly, having laid in a good supply one week ago. The trade at Albany, on Monday last, was quite brisk, in addition to the large number which changed hands for this city, 1,100 were bought for Brighton and other Eastern markets.

SWINE.

These continue to come in scantily. Only 3,993 live hogs have been received during the past week. 2,425 of which were reported from the Hudson River yards of Hughes & French, and 1,568 at Alderson's Western yards. At these latter, G. W. Dorman, broker, quotes sales as follows:

	Live.	Dead.
Corn hogs, heavy	6¼@6⅝c.	8 @8⅛c.
Corn hogs, light	6⅜@6⅝c.	8 @8⅜c.
Distillery hogs	5 @5⅝c.	7⅛@7⅜c.
Mast hogs	5 @5⅜c.	7⅜@7⅝c.

Stock on hand light, and buyers taking hold slowly.

Dressed hogs arrive in considerable quantities and in good order, now that the weather is cold. About 35,500 dead hogs were received during January.

NEWS FROM EUROPE.

Arrival of the Steamship Arabia.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The steamer Arabia from Liverpool the 4th, arrived this morning.

The Europa, from Boston, arrived at Queenstown at noon of the 4th. The Vigo was to sail on the 8th for New York in place of the Glasgow.

GREAT BRITAIN.—In the Commons on the 2d, Mr. Cochrane gave notice that on the 17th he should call the attention of the House to the state of relations with China.

The most important portion of the proceedings of the 2d and 3d has been published, viz: the refusal of Lord John Russell to lay before the House the correspondence touching Savoy and the defeat of the Government on a minor question.

Lord John Russell defended the British Consul at Tangiers from the charge of having aided the Moors, and asserted that he had pursued a strictly neutral policy.

In response to an enquiry, Lord John Russell said the Government had no reason to suppose that warlike preparations were going forward on an extraordinary scale in France. The Government had earnestly endeavored to prevent a renewal of hostilities, now that the Congress was not likely to meet, and had received the most satisfactory assurances.

The ratification of the new commercial treaty would be exchanged at Paris on the 4th instant.

Dr. Todd, the eminent physician and physiologist, was dead.

FRANCE.—Rumors were current that the Chalons camp would soon be re-established.

The Patrie pronounces false the statement of an approaching departure of the French troops from Rome. The same journal says it appears certain that the question of annexation to Central Italy will be subordinate to the result of universal suffrage. All the powers are agreed as to the propriety of that measure, the early application of which will positively make known the state of public opinion.

Rentes closed firm on the 3d at 67f.85c.

Prince Lato de Auvirgne is ordered to prolong his stay at Turin some time after the arrival of Baron Talleyrand, to support the counsels of moderation which Napoleon had ordered him to submit to Cavour.

The French army is to be considerably reduced, and the policy of the Emperor tends more than ever towards peace.

ITALY.—An affray occurred at Ancona between the Papal chasseurs and artillery men on one side, and gens d'armes on the other—three hundred of the former were said to be under arrest, of whom about forty were wounded. The Mazzini party was said to be active at Rome. Gen. Gordon had taken measures for preventing any manifestations.

An address from the town of Perugia, containing 609 signatures, had been sent to Napoleon.

AUSTRIA.—Kossuth had suddenly disappeared from London, and it was thought he had gone to Hungary. An address of the Hungarian Protestant Association, says the national movement will resemble an avalanche. Hungary will detach herself on the first opportunity from Austria.

Austria is said to be directing more troops towards the Tyrol, Venice and Hungary.

The Globe's Paris correspondent says it was generally understood that France and England were about to make a joint summons to Austria to desist from sending troops into the marshes of Ancona, and to evacuate Venice at the earliest period, and accept such indemnity as Italy is now ready to offer.

SPAIN.—Another corps is being got ready for Morocco, to be commanded by Concha. Reliable accounts say that the Moorish regular army had not yet been brought out. The division is said to number over 60,000 disciplined troops, waiting for a great battle. The object of the Moors was said to be to draw the Spaniards into the interior.

The Brazil (South America) mails of January had reached Lisbon. There is no political news of importance. The exportation of coffee from Rio to the United States, since the departure of the previous mail, had been 115,529 bags. The stock on hand was 130,000 bags. The price of firsts was 6 100@6 300 reis.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.—In the open market the rates were generally above the Bank's minimum, under the impression that at the weekly court of the directors on Thursday, this minimum might further advance. The impression was not realized, as the Court broke up without making any change, owing, it was supposed, to the bullion drawn, showing symptoms of abatement. When it was found that there was to be no further advance in the rate of discount at the Bank, a more cheerful tone sprung up, and consols improved ⅛ per cent.

On the 3d the improved tone continued, and consols closed 94⅝@94¾ for both money and account.

The weekly returns of the Bank of England show a decrease in bullion of £1,616,594, the amount held being £149,942,502. Messrs. Baring Bros. quote bar silver at 5s 2d; Mexican dollars nominally 5s 2½d; eagles 76s 4d, nominal.

LATEST.—The Daily News city article, dated Friday evening, says that the recovery of the Stock Exchange made further progress during the day. The demand for silver for the East likewise diminished, and the continental exchanges were firmer. The agitation in the discount market has been succeeded by comparative calmness, and it is moreover placed beyond doubt that the public, confident as ever of the general stability of trade, have availed themselves of the late decline to invest in good securities.

At the Bank of England on Friday there was a good, but not pressing demand for money, particularly in anticipation of the payments for the 4th. The discount establishments continued reluctant to enter into fresh transactions, but nevertheless a fair amount of business was done in good bills at 4 per cent., and at a fraction above that rate.

LONDON, Saturday noon.—The Australian mail has arrived.

Several of the Paris journals seem to consider the annexation of Savoy nearly the same as concluded.

PARIS, Saturday.—The contingent of 1859 is to be reduced from 240,000 to 160,000 men.

TURIN, Friday.—The journals of this day publish an Austrian ordinance concerning the enlistment of volunteers for the Neapolitan army.

Sardinian officers have left for Bologna, to organize the army.

Arrests continue in Venice to an alarming extent, and causing much terror among the inhabitants.

The Arabia, on the 5th, when abreast of the South Stake, passed the Cunard steamer Europa, from Boston, and the screw steamship from New York, both bound into Liverpool.

The Tuscan Moniter publishes a decree revoking a convention concluded between the Grand Duke Leopold and the Court of Rome in 1851, and all circulars and other acts of the government relating thereto.

Two of the journals of Turin state that they see no harm in the annexation of Savoy to France.

From New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Weather thick and snowing.

Three thousand persons attended the Italian Sympathy Meeting last night. The proceedings were quite enthusiastic. Speeches were made by Rev. Dr. Bellows, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Dr. Thompson, Joseph Hoxie, Prof. King, Prof. Mitchell, and others. Letters were read from John A. Dix, Chas. Sumner, G. L. Hillard, George Briggs, E. Joy Morris, and others.

The Tribune says the agreement between Com. Vanderbilt and the Pacific Mail Company had not been actually signed at a late hour yesterday afternoon, but there were only a few unimportant details to arrange, and little doubt was felt that the signatures of both parties would be attached last night. The only question, we believe, unsettled, was that of the division of the treasure freights between the Atlantic and Pacific Companies. Mr. Vanderbilt demands 36 per cent., and the Pacific Mail Company offer 30 per cent. This, however, only involves the question of $15,000 per annum, which is not likely to break up the negotiations. The scheme of the arrangement, as far as made public, is substantially as stated. The Pacific Mail Company buy the Vanderbilt boats in the Pacific with the exception of the Champion, for $750,000, of which $500,000 is paid in Pacific Mail stock at par, $250,000 in cash. The Champion is either to be taken by the Pacific Mail Company in exchange for the St. Louis and $150,000, or Mr. Vanderbilt is to be paid $50,000 to bring her back to the Atlantic. The Vanderbilt and Roberts steamers are to do the whole Atlantic service, and the Mail Company the service on the Pacific. The revenues of the line to be divided 30 per cent. to the Atlantic and 70 per cent. to the Pacific, with the exception of the freight upon treasure. It is not proposed to put passenger fares back to the old rates, but they will be materially advanced. It is believed with this combination of the interest of Commodore Vanderbilt and the Mail Company, a very profitable business can be done without danger of any opposition being established.

Lane, the defaulting teller of the Fulton Bank, has been convicted.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—On the 22d of February it is proposed that there shall be an effort made throughout the United States to raise sufficient funds to carry on the work upon the Washington National Monument during the coming year. Citizens in every part of the country can contribute through the Postmasters of their respective towns. About 7,000 Postmasters have boxes for the purpose placed in their offices, and have raised within the last four months more than $2000.

There are nearly 28,000 postmasters who have not been heard from, and it is to be hoped that they will co-operate with the others. If they will do so, and if their offices average only one dollar and fifty cents per year, or twelve and a half cents per month, the work can be kept in progress. A very slight effort made in each place throughout the country would insure the completion of the monument in a very few years. Editors of newspapers are desired to call attention to the patriotic enterprise.

Virginia Democratic Convention.

RICHMOND, Feb. 18.—The Convention broke up in a row at about 2 o'clock this morning without announcing the vote on the resolution that it is inexpedient to declare a particular preference for any man for President, but pledging support to the nominee. This morning it was announced that the vote was not yet counted, and a motion is pending to take the vote again. The Convention is now quarreling about the method of calling the roll and points of order.

ANOTHER DISPATCH.

RICHMOND, Feb, 18.—The Convention, amid much noise and confusion, and without arriving at any satisfactory conclusion, have just adjourned till 4 P. M.

Arrival of Steamer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The steamship Borussia, from Hamburg, via Southampton on the 4th, arrived this afternoon.

From Texas.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17.—Brownsville, Texas, advices are to the 9th. Important unpublished disclosures made as to the complicity of the Mexican authorities with Cortenas, it is believed, will decide the question of war.

REASONS FOR USING QUERU'S

Cod Liver Oil Jelly.

The N. Y. Academy of Medicine certify that it contains 85 per cent of Pure Cod Liver Oil.

1st.—That it is an established fact that Oils, to be assimilated, must be transformed into emulsion in the stomach.

2d.—That in most of the cases in which Cod Liver Oil is prescribed, the stomach of the patient is not in proper condition to make emulsion of all the oil taken, and that a great part, and sometimes the whole of the oil passes off undigested, and consequently inoperative. (this is easily traced in the dejections.)

3d.—That my Cod Liver Oil Jelly being a compound of oil and sugar, is an emulsion of itself as soon as in contact with a liquid; which takes place as soon as it reaches the stomach, whatever its condition may be.

4th.—That in cases when the Physician believes Cod Liver Oil to be prescribed as a specific or otherwise, my Jelly is more reliable than the crude oil, because being a solid it must remain in the stomach to undergo the natural process of digestion and assimilation, when on the contrary the liquid oil will pass off inoperative, if the stomach, as above stated, is not in a condition to make it emulsive, which always is more or less the case when the oil is indicated.

From the above consideration, the superiority of Queru's Cod Liver Oil Jelly over the crude oil, is to be acknowledged as a positive and incontestable fact. Sold by PENTON & CO., 94 Lake street.

FULL LENGTH STEEL ENGRAVINGS —OF— WASHINGTON AND EVERETT! Including a View of Mt. Vernon

In the Engraving of Washington. These splendid engravings are from the original paintings by Hicks, and are engraved on steel in the highest style of Art. They are each 25x35 inches, each containing six square feet. Two coarse, miserable pictures have been palmed upon the public as works of art—and especially in cheap, black and muddy engravings,—that it is difficult to convince persons of taste that they are safe in ordering what they have not first seen. We have paid the first artists thousands of dollars amounting to MANY THOUSAND DOLLARS, to produce Engravings REALLY BEAUTIFUL, as well as the best portraits, and that shall be Splendid Ornaments to any Parlor. Opinions that can be relied on:

The Editor of the New York Observer says—"These engravings are genuine works of art—the likenesses are admirable. The portrait of Mr. Everett will take precedence of all others."

They New York Christian Advocate says—"They are among the finest engravings we have ever seen, and the PUBLISHERS ARE FULLY RESPONSIBLE FOR ALL THEY PROMISE."

CLINTON BRIDGE.

The bridge across one branch of the Mississippi at Clinton was completed yesterday ... hereafter trains will run over it to Little ... Island, seven hundred feet from the ... shore, whence passengers and freight will be conveyed by ferry to Clinton. It is the ... tion, we believe, of the builders to so construct their ferry-boats that freight cars from the ... lena road can be taken across and landed without unloading, on the Iowa and Nebraska track; but whether they are yet prepared to do that we are not informed. This improvement, if it will, as is supposed, do away with the necessity of reshipment of east-bound freight at Clinton, will bring Central Iowa into still closer connection with Chicago. We congratulate the enterprising gentlemen who have had this work in charge, on its success.

THE RACINE SCANDAL.

We have a note from a responsible gentleman at Racine, who says that the account of the recent scan. mag. in that place given in the Saturday Evening Review, of this city, is wholly without foundation. As that account has, from its connexion with the Burch case, been extensively copied all over the country, greatly distressing worthy and innocent parties, our correspondent desires to use our columns to make an explicit denial of all that was alleged. His note, intended for publication, is as emphatic as words can make it, but too bitterly personal to do good service.

Later From Mexico.

[From the St. Louis Republican, Feb. 20th.]

The last overland mail brought in from Chihuahua as passengers, Mr. P. Macmanus and James P. Hickman. They made the trip from the capital, he believe, in sixteen days, the shortest time, we believe, on record. The affairs is represented by them as being in a most deplorable condition, and not one American, but the entire foreign population have been expelled and forced to leave by what is termed the "Church party."

The "Liberals" are represented as kindly disposed to the Americans, but their power is not sufficient to protect them, and they have been forced to retire, leaving their property behind them, which doubtless are ... have been confiscated, and the belief is expressed that the Capital of the State is now in the hands. Revolution and disorder prevail, and there is no longer any safety for the few foreign inhabitants, some of whom have been residents for years. The American and English merchants have left under the pronunciamento, all their property is at the mercy of a ... crew of robbers. A desperate and bloody battle had been fought on the plain of Tolano, which resulted disastrously to the Liberals.

Mr. Macmanus, who is a well known ... of Chihuahua, furnishes us with the following details, which we give in his own words:

On the 12th ultimo the State was invaded by a considerable force of the Church party, commanded by Domingo Cajen, and united with them were two hundred of the most desperate robbers in Mexico, they having been pardoned by Miramon, and let loose from the prisons with carte blanche to ravage the country. Their first outrage committed in the State was upon Washington Barr. He is well known by many gentlemen in this city. They robbed him of all his property and beat him unmercifully, retaining him as prisoner. His fate is unknown.

The Liberals have raised a force of three hundred men to defend their lives and property. This force consisted principally of young men from the towns of Allende and Parrel, and all of them inexperienced in warfare. On the ... the two parties met on the plain of Tolano. They fought from 8 A. M. until 3 P. M. The Liberals were defeated, losing forty on the field —forty-five including the wounded and those who surrendered—all of whom were butchered in a few minutes after.

When this intelligence reached the capital, the authorities called a meeting. The Americans were also requested to attend. The authorities then advised that the city would be deserted, but at the same time they stated that they could not defend the lives or property of Americans, citizens, and suggested to do that we had better call upon the commanding officer at Fort Bliss to come to our relief.

We replied that in case the acting Governor of the State would ask for assistance from the United States, under existing circumstances, we had no doubt it would be given ... immediately dispatched an express to the commanding officer at Fort Bliss, praying for the assistance of a few hundred men and ... respective officers. Upon the return of the express, and no hope of relief, the Americans commenced immediately to leave the city. On the 31st ult. all the business houses were closed—not one American in the Capital—a million dollars property abandoned.

The church party entertain most bitter feeling for the Americans, and never let an opportunity pass where they can manifest it, particularly since the ratification of the McLane treaty and the arrival of the President's message in Mexico.

Mr. Macmanus, who, having written a letter from Parrel advising the Americans of Chihuahua of the outrages committed by Cajen and his party, for so doing was fined four hundred dollars and imprisoned, and perhaps would fare worse than this awaits him.

The next news that may be heard from Chihuahua, will probably be another bloody affair, as Cajen, who holds a commission from Miramon, with a thousand men, was marching on the Capital; and although there will doubtless be a defense, yet no doubts are entertained by the parties with whom we have conversed that he will be successful.

Trouble Brewing in Spain.

From the tenor of our advices from Spain, it is evident that Spain is getting into hot water. The war with the Moors has been begun in haste, is being repented at leisure. Her troops, after being nearly three months in Africa, have only advanced some twelve miles into the interior, and instead of revelling amid the treasures of Mequinez, of which such glowing accounts were published before the Spanish troops, they have not yet taken the dirty little town of Tetuan, the walls of which can be seen on any clear day from the hill of Ceuta. Peace is accordingly desired, and we should not be surprised if through the efforts of the English agent or ... brought it about at an early day. In the meantime, while Gen. O'Donell, who is also Prime Minister, is at the head of the troops in Morocco, the Queen has struck a vein of piety, and, pronouncing her determination to stand by the Pope in his rising contest with Louis Napoleon, and talks of sending an army to guard Rome should the French troops be withdrawn. Spain is letting down the barriers which have hitherto prevented foreign Powers from protecting the claims of their subjects upon the Spanish government for acts of past bad faith. Whilst all is fair on externally, the new concordat with the Pope has been published, and gives great satisfaction to the moderate and liberal parties in Spain. An active intrigue is on foot in Madrid to upset the present Ministry, and we should not be at all surprised to learn at any moment that the commander-in-chief of the troops in Morocco, instead of being in active march for Tetuan, was back in the Spanish capital, to relieve himself from what General Scott once called "a fire in the rear." With some of these events, Louis Napoleon, whose will is far more powerful in Madrid than that of Queen Isabella, cannot be very well satisfied. He will probably read to her Spanish Majesty one of those sharp Napoleonic lessons which will teach her that she must be just to him before she can be generous to Pio Nono. The fact is, the clerical clique have the upper hand at the Spanish court just now, and the French Emperor will probably give them a twist in his great contest with the Papacy.—N. Y. ...
